Students Attend Conference

Eleven Heppner high school students helped to make up the one hundred and fifty-five representatives of 21 high schools of Umatilla, Morrow, Grant, Baker, Union and Wallowa counties at the second annual student conference, Friday, Dec. 9, to which Pendleton was host.

The morning's program consisted of interclass debate by Pendleton high school students. Following registration in the afternoon, the regular sessions of the conference were held at the Vert Little theater, with Marion Hughes, Pendleton student body president, presiding. This was followed by a dinner at the high school cafeteria. Events for the evening included the Hermiston-Pendleton basketball game and an all-school "mixer" dance, at which delegates were guests.

Discussions were held on topics of particular interest to high school students, such as athletics, music, journalism, dramatics, and social activities. Heppner and La Grande were assigned to lead the music discussions in connection with their championship bands. Delegates from other schools were found ready and willing to rise and explain solutions to various problems which they had encountered and offered these solutions for the benefit of those schools whose problems remain to be solved. Typical discussions ranged from the arousal of student interest in the activities to gaining public cooperation, including novel methods for advertising and carrying out activities. Delegates from Heppner high school included Shirley Wilson, Harold Armstrong, Richard Hayes, Jeanette Blakely, Dorothy Howell, Kemp Dick, Bud Blakeley, Dick Bogoger, John Crawford, Omer McCaleb and Bill Barratt.

Student Participation in Basketball Games

The students of this school have a very poor cooperative spirit. They sit in the assembly hall and listen to the announcements about the coming game, and as they listen they say to themselves, "I'm going to that," but five minutes later they've forgotten about it.

Of course, all the students can't go to the games out of town, but the home games should bring them out in full force.

At the last game and the game before it, there were about twenty students, out of a possible fifty or sixty that could come.

There have been pep talks, pep assemblies, and every other sort of thing that could be thought of has been tried, but the students do not seem to know what is being said or done.

The members of the Pep club, or any other group that is trying to get the students aroused enough to attend the games, should stay up nights if necessary in order to think of something that will bring out the basketball fans in force.

GAS HOUSE GOSSIP

By JOE AIKEN

In the Fossil game the locals started off with an early bid for points after the first few minutes of play, when Coxen broke in for the first two points. The Mustangs led for the first half, two points ahead. But after the third quarter, the Falcons evened up the score, and it looked like a tie game. But Coxen sank two more tallies with O'Donnell adding another basket. Prindel tallied with a basket seconds before the final whistle. The total score, 28 to 25, alone speaks for itself. Those who failed to attend missed the game of the year so far, and it is an even guess that such a game will not be witnessed in a long time.

The "B" squad game proved to be, more or less, a set up, as the local squad took their invaders with comparative ease.

With two good wins upon the score sheet, Heppner goes to Hermiston Dec. 17, to meet them in the annual battle of a home-and-home series. They meet Hermiston at an advantage as Hermiston has lost several games thus far in the season. Hermiston lost valuable men when Rankin, Keller and Marble graduated last spring.

Heppner has won two games out of two played, which gives them a thousand per cent for the season so far.

Upon the following Monday, the locals will still be on the road when they meet Pendleton upon Pendleton's home court. This is the first game in four years between Heppner and Pendleton. The game is between the Heppner "A" squad and the Pendleton "B" squad in the junior high gymnasium.

Two wins puts the local team in the upper bracket with Arlington, who won from Condon in the "A" league. Condon, Fossil, Arlington and Heppner make up the "A" league. In the "B" league, Irrigon, Lexington, and Umatilla. The winner from each league will play a game to decide the champion of the U. C. A. L. From almost a pre-season prediction it looks best for Irrigon in the "B" and Heppner in the "A."

Last week the football lads received their letters, twenty boys in all, (not counting the manager, of course) ten of them seniors. This leaves the team without two guards, one tackle, a center, quarterback, halfback, fullback, and end. For a drawing card there will be a regular boxing bout each evening between halves and between games. This may prove to be interesting as it goes along.

Here and Yon

Gerald Keller, the all-star basketball player from Hermiston, is on the Pacific university traveling squad.

Howard Patton, the lad who leads the boxing team, has recovered from a broken hand and has been working out lightly.

The local F. F. A. chapter invested in a punching bag for the chapter's boxing team. The clattering heard in the gym basement is the bag being used.

It is rumored that the Condon F. F. A. boxing team is set for the match with Heppner, as they have been training steadily for two months.

Annual Staff Chosen

The following is the complete annual staff for this year:

Editor, Frances McCarty; assistant editor, Betty Jean Robinson; sports editors, John Crawford and Bill Barratt; clubs and societies, Shirley Wilson; dramatics, Bethal Blake; Humor, Omer McCaleb; art, Edna Stephens; administration, Carolyn Vaughn; typists, Sibyl Howell, Alvina Casebeer.

The annual staff is going to incorporate some changes this year. The paper is to be bought without a printed design, and one is to be put on with a central theme carried throughout. Rose Liebbrand is to do photography. If possible more pictures will be included.

F. F. A. Loses to Pendleton

The Pendleton F. F. A. basketball team defeated the local F. F. A. boys in both games of a double-header held Wednesday night, Dec. 7, in the gymnasium. Score for the first team game was 42-16, and for the second team game, 11-9.

F. F. A. Banquet Success

The local chapter of Future Farmers of America gave its annual parent and son banquet, served by the Home Ec class, Saturday evening with over 100 people attending.

The banquet was started with the opening ceremonies by the F. F. A. officers. Omer McCaleb gave a short welcoming address, and turned the meeting over to Howard Patton, who acted as toastmaster. Mr. Blankenship, Mrs. Rodgers, and Dick Wightman talked about the advantages of F. F. A. work.

R. A. Thompson, B. C. Pinckney and F. W. Turner were announced as receiving honorary membership into the local chapter of F. F. A.

The evening program featured a very interesting address by Edgar Spickerman, state F. F. A. president, who talked about the advantages of leadership, cooperation, and knowledge in selling the standards of the ideal citizenship for the future.

The banquet was brought to an end at 8:25 with a salute to the flag.

Boardman FFA Gives Banquet

The Boardman chapter of the Future Farmers of America gave a banquet on Thursday, Dec. 8, to which they invited all members, parents, or members, leading citizens of the vicinity and representatives from other chapters in the section. Anyone who was invited was asked to wear overalls, since it was to be a very informal banquet. Ralph Skoubo, president of the Boardman chapter, acted as toastmaster, introducing throughout the banquet: first, Mr. Sullivan, advisor of the Boardman FFA; next, three honorary members who were accepted into the chapter; then the guests from neighboring chapters, including Helix, Pendleton and Heppner; finally, Ed Spickerman, state FFA president, who spoke on the national organization of the FFA.

Following the banquet, the visitors made a tour through the classroom and farm shop.

H Club Initiation Held

Last Thursday, the new lettermen were taken into the H club. They were as follows: Dick Bogoger, Bob Applegate, Don Frederickson, Clifford Faye, Lee Pettyjohn, Kemp Dick, Bob Scrivner and Howard Patton. After the boys had been severely paddled and brought through the various other tortures, they were branded with an "H" and became regular members of the club.

Did You Know That—

Jack Merrill doesn't like mirrors, especially rear-view mirrors?

Some of the college students are coming home for the operetta?

Bill Blake doesn't like to dance but goes to the lone dances.

Pat Healy is now selling 76 gasoline?

A certain lone girl was looking for a certain Heppner boy?

Shirley Wilson is now using the method of Dorothy Howell? (Open date list.)

Omer McCaleb's heart is set on making the operetta a success tomorrow night, because of a certain Oregon State girl?

Hitler and Thither

It is rumored that Bethal and Emery took a trip. Could that be the reason for their absence from school Monday.

News has it our way that Dick Bogoger spent most of his time Saturday night waiting for the lone girls.

Imagine Laura falling for Bob Scrivner! Was operetta practice the proper place, Laura?

Do you suppose Don Evans is changing his mind? Did we by any girls Tuesday night?

chance see him waiting for the lone
