All Stars Down Mustangs

A quintet of former Heppner high basketball stars defeated the Mustangs, 47-32, in a wild basketball game last Thursday afternoon before Christmas. The all-stars shot ahead to an early lead on long shots. They all seemed to have an uncoanny eye for the basket. Green and Turner were outstanding for the all-stars. After dropping behind in the first period, the high school held their own the remainder of the game.

Alumni Activities

Students spending the holiday vacation at home were as follows:
 Oregon State—Charles Cox, Harriet Hager, Nancy Cox, Norton King, Howard Cleveland, Bernard McMurdoo, Don Drake, Chet Christenson, Jimmy Farley.
 University of Oregon—Paul McCarty, Don Turner, LaVerne Van Marter, Francis Nickerson, Joe Green, Arlene Morton.
 Pacific University—Maxine McCurdy, Len Gilman.
 Whitman College—Jackson Gilman.

La Grande Normal—Fred Hoskins, Vernon Knowles.

Norma McFerrin, who is attending nurses' training in Pendleton, spent Christmas at her home in Heppner.

Willie McRoberts is visiting friends and relatives in Heppner.

Louise Anderson and Florence Becket re-entered Oregon State at mid term.

Johnny Hays, who is employed at Grand Coulee dam, visited in Heppner during Christmas.

"H" Club to Hold Dance

The meeting of the "H" club was called to order Thursday, Dec. 22, by the president, Harold Armstrong, for the purpose of adopting a new constitution. In order that the members might vote intelligently on it, the president read the constitution, article by article, and it was voted on that way.

The constitution was adopted as it stood, with the exception of Article V. A fifth section was added, which stated that the "H" club would give $8.50 toward a sweater to any member who had won a letter in any major sport for three years.

In the form of new business, a motion was made and seconded that the "H" club sponsor a dance after the Arlington basketball game. This was passed by a large majority.

The president appointed a committee for the purpose of seeing what could be done on that line. Some non-"H" club business was brought up and declared out of order, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Exams

It has come to pass that we will meet our greatest foe next week, "Semester Exams." Many students have put off from day to day the work they should have done. But any place, anywhere, everyone has a reckoning day. Many students need to change their motto, "Never do today what you can do tomorrow" to "Never put off anything you can do today." So during the coming semester tests, let's study, and surprise our teachers.

GAS HOUSE GOSSIP

By JOE AIKEN

The local sports front offered little for the public in general; however, the different bowl games reserved most of the interest.

The alumni scheduled games with Ione and Lex, in which they emerged the victors. Most of the alumni attend colleges in Oregon as follows: Gilman, Pacific; Van Marter, U. of O.; Cox, O. S. C.; Green, U. of O.; Turner, U. of O.

Tiger Nickerson, top boxer in his division at the U. of O., worked out in the gym with McMurdoo, a student of OSC, during the vacation.

A glimpse of the local casaba team—they worked out lightly several times in the last week. Last Monday a scrimmage session was held under the supervision of Coach Knox. Practice was started in earnest Tuesday to prepare for the tilt with Arlington at Arlington next Saturday. This will be the second league game in which Heppner will be a participant. Heppner has played one league game, while all the others have had at least two. This, however, doesn't mean that we are not worthy our present position, the top of the league ladder, but since we have a victory over Fossil, and Fossil has beaten Arlington and Condon, it should make us about the best as far as prognostication goes, which isn't what it is cracked up to be.

In the lower division of the league, Irrigon seems to have jumped to an early lead and held it, although Umatilla has been giving them a close race for their place. It makes it almost impossible to predict any winner as yet, but time is the best solution, and patience will see the result.

There has been talk about organizing a city league, such as was organized for the soft ball league this last spring. This would be possible if action was taken some time in the near future. It would not only provide excellent amusement but would be a civic movement toward some physical activity for men. As there is no such field of sport in Heppner, it would be greatly enjoyed and would be an opportunity to receive exercise other than in the morning rising.

These leagues have been organized in various other towns and could be carried out to a great extent in this town.

Here and Yon

The plans have been layed upon the table for the "H" club smaker with Hermiston in the near future. Those high school students interested can get full particulars from Harold Armstrong.

Jack Morton won a first string letter from the Newberg high school. This was his first year at football. He states he likes it very much.

The Condon F. F. A. lads are still training for the Heppner smoker. For their training program they run one mile before breakfast and box from seven to eight-thirty in the evening.

Girls' League Holds Meeting

The Girls' League held a meeting Thursday, December 22. The business part of this meeting was to decide whether they should donate five dollars to Father Flanagan or buy new presents and give them to those grade school students who would be apt to receive little. The girls finally decided to buy presents for the grade school students.

The first grade girls entertained the Girls' League by putting on a short skit, which was very entertaining. Following this, each girl answered roll call with the present she should like most to receive for Christmas. Also to get into the Christmas spirit, the girls sang carols for the remainder of the time.

Christmas Assembly

Friday afternoon Santa Claus made an early visit for the benefit of the student body. He distributed presents, oranges, candy, and read a few of the interesting letters he had received, much to the embarrassment of some of those present. Santa Claus was impersonated by Harold Armstrong.

Also in the spirit of Christmas, presentations were made to Mr. Knox, a beautiful jockey satin jacket, on behalf of the football squad, as a token of their appreciation of his efforts in making a championship football team. Mr. Peacy, Miss Smith and Miss Nordstrom were presented with gifts for their help in making the operetta a success.

Several of the alumni were called upon for short speeches; then with the singing of Christmas carols, school was dismissed for the year of 1938.

Hither and Yon

Lowell Ashbaugh has taken a few trips three miles up Willow creek lately.

Donnie Bennett is worrying about a certain blond.

Betty Jean and Harry were seen at the Christmas dance, but not together.

Milton Morgan and Van Marter were in partnership over the vacation.

We are all wondering where Betty Happold's steady boy friend was Saturday night.

We wonder if the vacation had lasted longer if the students would still keep as late hours as last Saturday night.

Since Shirley has visits from a certain Lexington boy, she has no more open date nights.

Carolyn has adopted the slogan, "When the mice are away, the cat will play."

Resolution

An old year has passed, and a new one has begun. In this new year, let us start it off with a bang. Turn over a new leaf, and try to do our work better. Also, let us get in and study and pass our semester examinations.

Have You Ever Seen—

Milton Morgan with the lights out?
 Bethal Blake without Emery?
 Mr. Peacy without a whisker?
 Donald Frederickson with a necktie?
 Ripley without an answer?
 The moon at noon?
 Kemp Dick in a hurry?
 Jack Merrill's orchestra?
 The Higher Algebra class on time?
 Howard Patton asleep?
 The basketball team in action?
 Harold Armstrong with a grin?
 Bob Scrivner with a knife?

Did You Know That—

Lovers' Lane is coming back in style?
 John had to rest up after his vacation?
 Dubby got his presents mixed?
 That that, that that that modified, is incorrect?
 Art was behind the 8 ball when the lights went out?
 Bill Barratt has a secret?
 Mr. Bennett sends students back to the office to get tardy slips who try to enter his class late?
 Don Frederickson likes tooth picks?

Christmas Assembly

Milton Morgan has a twinkle in his eye since the holidays?
 Bill and Wilbur sandwiched Norma in Wilbur's car Sunday afternoon?

Vacation Happenings

During vacation many events of interest to the younger set were taking place. On Christmas eve the annual Christmas ball was held at the Elks' hall, with the high school and college set very much in evidence with their "shagging," "trucking," "Lambeth Walk," etc.

On Monday a dance was held at Echo with several of the high school students attending. On Wednesday another dance was held at Ione, and finally to "top it all off" came the great New Year's ball at the Elks. At the stroke of midnight confetti, serpentine, paper hats were flying around, and shouts of Happy New Year were ringing in everyone's ears. This dance was, of course, well attended by the younger set.

Various students of Heppner high spent their Christmas vacation out of town. These included Helen Egan, who spent a very enjoyable week end in Condon; Billy Barratt, who spent it visiting with his grandmother in Portland, and Willie Stone, who spent part of the vacation visiting in Pilot Rock and Pendleton with friends.

Work Starts on OSC Ag Engineering Plant

Oregon State College—Reconstruction of the agricultural engineering building at Oregon State college has commenced following the recent awarding of a contract to the Douglas-Hammond company of Portland.

Increased construction costs in recent months made it necessary to eliminate certain features of the enlarged building as planned, although use of the PWA grant will make it possible to add one wing to the present structure and to improve on the former structural standards.

Because of lack of facilities this winter, the usual farm tractor short course conducted by the agricultural engineering department has been cancelled, but will doubtless be held again next winter.
