Local Garden Club Given Send-Off

Final organization of the Heppner Garden club was effected Monday afternoon by Mrs. H. O. Mansfield of Freewater, district vice president of the state organization, at a meeting at the Episcopal Parish house. Mrs. D. M. Ward was named president; Mrs. C. W. McNamer, vicepresident; Miss Rose Leibbrand, secretary, and Mrs. J. O. Hager, treasurer. These with Mrs. Charles B. Cox, Mrs. A. D. McMurdo, Mrs. Fred Lucas, Mrs. L. E. Bisbee, Mrs. E. E. Gilliam and Miss Leta Humphreys, compose the charter membership.

Mrs. Mansfield, with Mr. Mansfield, attended the Monday Lions luncheon with several members of the local club and explained the garden club work. She is president of the Freewater club which won the Kellogg prize nationally for the Thursday: Prayer Meeting 7:30 P. M. best piece of community improvement in 1937. The garden club work is concerned with beautification, as the name implies, but also allies itself with general betterment to enhance the surroundings and opportunities of underprivileged youth.

In Oregon the garden clubs are especially active in promoting roadside beautification through elimination of signboards and other manmade mars to the natural landscape. Mrs. Mansfield said that Morrow county should tell the world of its Lexington-Jarmon highway, for it is the only road she has encountered anywhere in the state that is entirely unaffected by signboards and thus the best preserved in its beautiful natural scenery of any road in the state.

Attending the luncheon with Mrs. Mansfield were Mrs. Ward and Miss Leibbrand, local club officers. Miss Leta Peterson and Miss Rachel Forsythe obliged with violin duet numbers accompanied by Virginia Dix.

John A. Harbke, 68, Was Long Resident

John A. Harbke, 68, who as a long-time resident of the Ione section gave his name to common dust storms of the area as "Harbke rains," died at his home in Portland, 4806 Northeast Twentieth avenue, Saturday, after a month's illness. For many years he owned the famous Wells springs ranch east of Ione and was instrumental in forming the Wells Springs Gas & Oil company which a few years ago attempted to develop the well at Wells springs from which natural gas has escaped for years.

Mr. Harbke's oft-repeated assertion when a hard wind was blowing the sand in the Ione section that the moisture thus brought was doing the country much good caused people of Ione to term the sand storms, "Harbke rains," a term that has for years been synonymous here with such storms.

Native of Illinois, Mr. Harbke first came to Oregon in 1882, settling on a farm near Ione. After the Heppner disaster, he went to Portland in 1905. He managed property of Samuel Hill at Maryhill, Wash., from 1917 to 1922. He returned to Portland, to the real estate business, and directed development of the Vernon tract. He retired five years ago.

He leaves the widow, Ine E., at the home, and a daughter, Mrs. Helen Johnson, Sappoose.

He had been a member of the Masonic lodge at Goldendale, Wash., for many years.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in Portland in charge of Holman & Lutz.

NO IRRIGATION REQUESTED

Farmers on Willow and Rhea creeks are requested by H. A. Tamblyn, watermaster, not to irrigate for a while to permit water to reach lower Willow creek for livestock. Under the water rights law, livestock are given consideration ahead of crops, Mr. Tamblyn points out.

Publication of the 1939 edition of "Oregon Traffic Accident Facts" is scheduled soon by Secretary of State Earl Snell, and a supply of copies will be sent to all traffic safety councils in the state, as well as to schools, newspapers and interested individuals and groups. New information and localized statistics will be included.

Pet Poison Victim; Doctored Meat Found

Ginger, Irish setter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Mahoney, fell victim to poison this week, and another attempted attack in what appears to be an outbreak of periodic dog poisoning was averted when Mrs. Will Morgan picked up a small patty of hamburger in the upstairs hall of the First National bank building which Dr. L. D. Tibbles analyzed as definitely containing strychnine.

The pet of Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney to which they were fondly attached and a fine hunting dog, was found near the Joe Hughes place on the Heppner hill road a short way from the edge of town. Mrs. Hughes reported finding the dog which had died in convulsions, Tuesday.
