Six Weeks' Exams

Well, fellow sufferers, here come those brain-crushers again, usually called "the six weeks' exams." This seems to be the usual attitude taken by students of the high school. On the night before the exams came the student usually has a "good book he or she must finish." If it isn't a book, it's a date with your best girl, and it "can't be broken." The tests probably won't be very hard tomorrow and anyway, you will have time before class to study. Isn't it a sworn statement that you shouldn't "cram" before an exam? But getting down to facts, by the time you get up tomorrow morning and by the time you get to school, you are lucky if you get there in time for the exam.

So what do you say, fellows, that we all make a date with our school books the night before the exam and really get in and make some good grades? Wouldn't we all like to see the teachers "really surprised"?

Club Activities
This last week the clubs of Heppner High were inactive. A meeting of the Girls' League was scheduled but was postponed until this Friday, February 24.

The Home Economics club held several meetings, but they were only for the purpose of practicing the acts for their assembly given on Friday.

There were no other meetings of any clubs scheduled for this week.

Home Ec. Assembly Program

Firemen Dine, Report Hall Work

Members of Heppner's volunteer fire department ate fried oysters at Hotel Heppner Monday evening, discussed plans for the coming smoker next Thursday and reported work accomplished in preparing quarters for staging it in the rear of the city hall.

Sixty-odd dollars was expended in making the ring and placing seats in the city building, with the result that upwards of 300 may be seated, all in good view of the ring. The public will be ushered in through the fire engine room, which will be cleared for the occasion, it was announced. Dick Sperry, match-maker, promised next Thursday's card would be the hottest ever.
