ing applications for spring wheat crop insurance is March 1.

The state and county AAA committees will be in full charge of the insurance adjustments in Oregon, the state office at Corvallis has been notified, and farmers who believe be given by the Pine City high that their wheat has suffered loss sufficient to warrant a claim will retitle of the play is "Swept Clean port the condition to the county committee. The insured crop will then be examined by an inspector working under the county committee's direction.

Actual settlement of approved claims will be made by branch offices of the corporation, and growers may receive indemnity payments in cash or in the form of warehouse receipts for actual grain. The 664 Oregon farmers now holding crop insurance policies are guaranteed a certain number of bushels of wheat, and in case some unavoidable hazard such as drouth, hail or winter-kill reduces the crop below the insured amount, the grower is eligible for an indemnity sufficient to bring his production up to the insured amount.

In case of total loss, proof of loss of the entire insured amount will be submitted by the grower to obtain settlement.

In case of substantially total loss -one which makes it impracticable to care for the crop further-proof of loss will be based on the amount of loss sustained, taking into account the appraised production which might be expected from the damaged crop. In either total or substantially total loss, making it impracticable to care for the crop further, the grower may put the land to other use after adjustment.

Where crop losses cannot be defined as total or sbstantialluy total, final adjustment will not be made until the wheat has been threshed to determine actual yield.

Herman Green was sufficiently recovered from his recent appendicitis operation to return home Sunday from the hospital.

who crawls along like a snail, forcing other drivers to remain behind his car in a long, impatient line. One bus operator reported following a string of cars for 50 miles before being able to pass the leader, who was a young fellow in a powerful coupe out for a ride with his girl friend. There are often good reasons for driving slowly, but there is never an excuse for delaying traffic for those reasons, Snell said. The man with the poorly-functioning car, or the man who wishes to gaze at the scenery, can easily pull off to the side of the road at no inconvenience to himself and permit the cars behind him to pass.

Truck drivers who must travel slowly on hills and winding roads make a regular practice of stopping at intervals to let faster traffic by. There is no reason, in Snell's opinion, why private operators should not show equal willingness to assist traffic and forestall the formation of a dangerous "line-up" on the highway.
