Mrs. Cannon Reported Recovering Operation

By HARDMAN HIGH SCHOOL
We are glad to know that Mrs. Ada Cannon who is convalescing in a hospital at The Dalles after an operation, will be ready to leave there on Saturday.

Mrs. Harold Stevens, Miss Alta Stevens and Mrs. Ethel McDaniel were business visitors in Heppner Wednesday.

Those who attended the Christian Endeavor convention in Salem were Mrs. Neal Knighten, Nona and Alene Inskip, Joe and Edna Stephens, Juanita Byer, Ollie Hastings, Mrs. Muriel McCutchen and son Glenn. The delegates who were sent by the local Christian Endeavor were Miss Alene Inskip and Joe Stephens. The Stephens car returned late Sunday evening and the Knighten car Monday evening.

The Rebekahs are giving another dance Saturday night, April 29. Good music has been arranged for, and the usual good time is expected.

Kinnard McDaniel was in Hardman the end of the week from the McMurdo ranch, delivering pigs.

Those in Heppner Saturday and attending the show were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brannon, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Hams, Mr. and Mrs. James Brannon, Mrs. Ethel McDaniel, Vern and Cecil McDaniel, Les Robinson, and most of these stopped at Rhea creek for the dance. Others attending the dance from Hardman were Mrs. Roy Robinson, Miss Clara Adams, Donald Robinson, Marvin Saddle, Delbert Robinson, Dallas and Delvin McDaniel, Darrel Farners and Lester Ashbaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leathers and Jean and Vera McDaniel went to the dance at Monument Saturday night.

Posters are out for a carnival to be held next Saturday, April 29, in the Fan Miller hall for the purpose of raising money for the recreation club.

Mrs. Everett Harshman and Gay visited here for a short time Wednesday.

Archie and Lloyd Leathers visited here Sunday, at the home of their brother Carl, and also at the Owen Leathers home.

The Birthday club met at the home of Mrs. Earl Redding last Wednesday. Mrs. Redding received many lovely gifts, and delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McDaniel and daughter Maxine were in Hardman Tuesday from the mill.

Miss Janis Blackman sent her contract back not signed for grade school, so Miss Lurline Sparks of Pendleton has accepted the position, which is for the upper grades.

Harold Swearingen of Hubbard was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Inskip Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Harold is a nephew of Mrs. Inskip.

Misses Rita Robinson and Frances Inskip and Marvin Saddle and Henry Graham took Donald Robinson out to the ranch Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Thomas of Portland is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Batty.

Mrs. Theodore Wacker and small son Larry of Salem are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Inskip. Mrs. Wacker came up from Salem with Mrs. Neal Knighten when she returned from the Christian Endeavor convention and plans to spend about two weeks here.

The weather this week was much the same as last. The eclipse of the sun which occurred on Wednesday morning was observed by many. Early in the week there was a very slight rainfall on several nights, and at this writing the many clouds indicate that a real rain is to be expected.

A recent editorial in the Klamath Falls Herald noted proudly that Klamath county had risen to first place among eight counties in its population group in the reduction of traffic accidents, and asked drivers of the Klamath country to help maintain the rate of only one death every three months established in that county in January, February and March of this year.

Shepherd Lauds Work of County Planning Groups

The work of county planning committees in helping shape a valuable program for the agricultural adjustment administration in Oregon was praised recently by John Shepherd of Linn county, member of the state AAA committee, in a talk over radio station KOAC at Corvallis.

Shepherd, a well known diversified farmer and prominent in farmer organization work, spoke on "Good Land Use Through the Farm Program" in his radio appearance the night of April 7.

"You are familiar with the agricultural planning conferences which have been held in Oregon counties the last several years," he said.

"Farmers such as you and I sat around the conference table and discussed good farming methods, and talked about what our counties needed in order to bring a better rural income. Our major recommendations have been incorporated into the AAA farm program. In other words, when we cooperate with the farm program, we're doing those things which our own planning committees have recommended."

Among conservation practices being carried on in the Willamette valley under the farm program, with "county planning committees as supporters," he listed reseeding of pasture, range, logged-off and burnland, greater use of green manure crops on orchard and berry lands, more use of lime, phosphate, gypsum and sulfur, increased planting of alfalfa and red clover, and control of noxious weeds.

The committeeman said that 45,000 Oregon farmers are cooperating in conservation features of the farm program, 20,000 of them living in the Willamette valley.

Oregon Clubbers Lead In Fair Livestock Show

Against the strongest competition in the history of the Interstate Junior Livestock show held at the San Francisco World fair, Oregon club members made a clean sweep of blue ribbons in the Aberdeen-Angus baby beef, took one blue ribbon in Shorthorn classes, and were second only to Texas exhibitors in the Hereford classes.

Of the 23 club members from six Oregon counties, 16 won one or more prizes on their animals. These were in competition with stock shipped from nearly every section of the United States. Some 4000 head of baby beeves, lambs, and hogs were shown.

Taylor High of Klamath county took highest honors among the Oregon exhibitors by winning first in the Aberdeen-Angus class with a baby beef weighing 650 to 800 pounds, and also took the breed championship. Charles Kik of Umatilla county placed first; Stanley Masten, Klamath county, second, and Kenneth Bensel, Umatilla, third, in the Aberdeen-Angus class with steers weighing 805 to 950 pounds. Charles Cheyne and Virgil Ratliff of Klamath county took first and second in the Aberdeen-Angus class with steers weighing 955 to 1100 pounds. Bob Blickenstaff of Klamath county was first in the low weight Shorthorn class. Robert H. King of Sherman county with two animals placed second and fourth in the Hereford 650 to 800 pound class.

Others who won ribbons in the Hereford class were Clayton Charley, Jackson county; Marvin Wellman and George Poulos, Baker county, and Joe Keller and Walter Ritter, Klamath county. Other winners in the Aberdeen-Angus class were Lawrence Ousterhout and Don Pruet, Jackson county.

March was the first month in exactly one year during which non-resident motorists' permits exceeded those issued during the corresponding month of the previous year, Secretary of State Earl Snell announced today. Permits for the year to date are still slightly behind those issued during the first three months of 1928, but are expected to pass last year's figure soon.

SAFETY SONNETS

—National Safety Council

While the horn on an automobile must be recognized as essential to safety in driving, it is perhaps one of the most misused pieces of equipment on the car, according to Secretary of State Earl Snell.

Excessive use of the horn has long been known as an objectionable habit, but it is not well known that by using the horn unnecessarily a driver might be creating an element of needless danger.

There is an interesting mental reaction to be noted in connection with the use of an automobile horn in that when the horn is used the driver seldom exhibits any tendency to reduce his driving speed. He is far more likely to increase his speed because in sounding the horn he has indicated his intention to keep going and he wants to make it evident that the way had better be made clear for him.

If, on the other hand, he refrains from using the horn and places his foot on the brake he is indicating that he intends to reduce his speed, or stop if necessary, until the danger is past. It would appear obvious that slowing down until the danger is past represents a much more reasonable procedure than attempting to blast danger out of the way by sounding the horn.

Automobile horns have been misused by thoughtless drivers to such an extent that there has been some discussion of prohibiting them altogether, since too many drivers appear to believe that they can assure their safety under all traffic conditions simply by making a loud noise. It is reasoned by some that if horns were eliminated the drivers would utilize more practical precautions to avoid trouble, but whether or not that would be the result is somewhat problematical.

It seems that the most practical solution to the problem presented by the driver who uses his horn excessively must come in the form of a general understanding of his true status. His actions too often symbolize the discourtesy which accounts for much of the trouble and confusion in traffic.

Three Homemakers Accorded Recognition

To three Oregon homemakers have recently come high honors and special opportunities in recognition of their outstanding work in county home demonstration, according to Mrs. Azalea Sager, state home demonstration leader at Oregon State college.

Mrs. Ethel Lathrop of Central Point, state chairman of the home economics extension council and active in home demonstration work since 1918, will represent Oregon farm homemakers at the London, England, conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in June. Jackson county home economics extension units and study groups, whose work is under the direction of Mrs. Mabel Mack, home demonstration agent, are sending Mrs. Lathrop as a delegate.

As one of four farm women invited to speak on a program for farm women of the United States at the World's Fair in New York, Mrs. Lathrop will discuss the foods and nutrition work of the extension program as it affects the farm. She will sail May 23 with a group delegation from America on the Queen Mary for the conference, where women from all over the world will be in attendance.

Another homemaker, Mrs. Wanda

Finck, extension worker in Clackamas county, left last Friday for Washington, D. C., where she was invited by Secretary Wallace to attend a conference of urban and rural women April 13 and 14. The 25 farm women and 35 city women attending this conference will discuss agricultural policies needed to contribute toward raising the standard of living and use of abundant resources to improve quality of living.

The third woman receiving recognition, Mrs. C. J. Humphreys, member of the Clackamas county home economics committee and active in the Concord study group, will participate in a national hook-up over radio station KEX. She is scheduled to speak at 9:30 on the morning of May 3 on "Rural Homemaking and the Child."

Miss Helen Ann Thomas, home demonstration agent for Clackamas county, and Mrs. Buena Maris, acting specialist in parent education, will also take part in this discussion.
