Advertising of Rodeo to Be Given Broader Range

Business Men Take Action In Promoting Annual Exhibition

Heppner's annual western classic, the Rodeo, will receive wider publicity throughout the northwest this year, due to the cooperation of the Rodeo association and business men in an advertising campaign. Additional circulation of information relative to the local show will be obtained through the use of special envelopes which business houses have bought in generous quantities for use during July and August. Decision to try this method of selling the show at home and abroad was reached in the meeting of the association at Hotel Heppner last Friday evening.

A special design gotten up in the Gazette Times printery met with the instant approval of business men and the response has been gratifying. The design is printed in two colors, with type matter in blue and the cut of a horse and rider in red. The wording is brief, merely stating "Heppner Rodeo, Heppner, Oregon, August 24, 25, 26, 1939," with the slogan, "She's Wild!" under the horse and rider.

Several matters connected with the operation of the show were presented and discussed. C. D. Conrad, county agent, spoke briefly regarding the 4-H club fair, which is an important feature of the Heppner event. It is his belief that the grain show should be stressed more than in the past, that being his chief suggestion at this time. He asked that the 4-H clubbers be given the same consideration as in the past relative to concessions at the queen dances and received assurance that there would be no change in that matter.

Frank Alfred read and explained the terms of the underwriters' agreement, making it clear that signers will in no event be assessed more than the $25 specified. A list of responsible guarantors has been made up by the committee and it is expected that 50 or more of these will sign up.

An effort will be made to get more floats in this year's parade. To accomplish this it will be necessary to start work on the floats earlier than in the past and this is what the parade committee expects to do. Solicitation for funds will start right after the Fourth of July and classifications and prizes will be announced as quickly as possible. The parade is separate from the Rodeo, although the association has backed it at different times. All money solicited for the parade is spent on that feature alone. When there has not been money enough to pay out on the parade the association has come to the rescue.

Another advertising feature discussed and left for committee investigation was that of selling Rodeo buttons. Other shows have been using this method with some success and the local association is disposed to try the plan here. The buttons may be made redeemable at concessions and the Rodeo, or the committee may decide on offering prizes.

Admissions will remain the same as last year, one dollar general admission, 50 cents for children and $1.25 for reserved seats.

BLANKENSHIPS IN EAST

Word received from Superintendent Aldon Blankenship of the Heppner schools this morning is to the effect that he and Mrs. Blankenship were headed for New York where he will take special summer work in the teachers' college of Columbia university. They will be in New York until the middle of August.

LUMBER PILING UP AT LOCAL PLANT

Heppner Lumber Co. Swings Into Action With New Mill During Past Week.

Lumber piles are growing at the plant of the Heppner Lumber company two miles north of Heppner. Sawing started last week and already there is evidence of a successful season well under way.

An order for 200,000 feet of clear lumber for the Nicolai Sash & Door factory of Portland is now drying and the mill started on logs of the Bridal Veil Lumber company the first of this week. Some of this material will be planed by the local plant, it was stated.

A crew of 22 men is employed at the sawmill at this time and a daily cutting of 40,000 feet is being made. With the men in the timber getting out the logs and the trucking crew hauling the timber to the mill the payroll of the new industry approximates 50 men. Aside from the mill payroll, the Heppner Fuel company, Turner and Parker, has several men employed piling slabwood on a tract east of the highway near the millsite.

One piece of machinery in use at the mill and new to this district is the carrier used in hauling the freshly cut lumber from the mill to the piling yard. Due to the rough terrain over which the carrier has to operate the one in use here is much smaller than those used in the big mills, yet it is capable of handling the output of a much bigger mill. It has been the practice of the local operators to use a truck for the piling job in former locations.

Additional trucks will be put in service to haul logs from the mountains in order to keep the plant running at capacity.

Beamer Team Will Eat Chicken Dinner

Running up a total of 4552 points, the team captained by Ralph Beamer won the crow and magpie contest from the team captained by George Howard, final scores revealed this week. Howard's team was a fair runner-up, netting 4147 points.

Under the agreement made at the start of the contest several months ago, Beamer's team will eat chicken and Howard and his crew will eat crow—maybe. The dinner for the winners will be served sometime during July at which time it is expected that Frank B. Wire, state game supervisor, will be present.

Winners in the egg-taking contest were Raymond Parrish of Heppner, Robert Hoskins, Ione and Bobby Wright, Rhea Creek. Each boy was awarded a .22 rifle, the guns being given by Gilliam & Bisbee, Geen Hardware and J. Logie Richardson.

Kinzua Building Logging Highway

A logging highway 32 feet wide is being built by the Kinzua Pine Mill company from Wineland lake to the W. H. French place, according to District Ranger F. F. Wehmeyer, who states that the road will be for private use. The company has a 100-foot right-of-way for 11 miles, the distance between the end of the logging railroad at Wineland lake and the French place.

Upon completion of the highway huge diesel motored trucks with a capacity of 8,000 feet will be put into operation hauling logs to the railroad. The road is so constructed as to permit a speed of 30 miles an hour by the trucks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Schwartz of Portland were in the county this week looking after property interests. While here they were registered at Hotel Heppner.

Grangers, Friends Join in Picnic And Farm Tour

Phases of Farm Work Viewed at Heppner, Boardman Meets

Sponsored by the granges of the county and the soil conservation service, two farm tours were conducted the past week end. The first one was held Saturday at Boardman for the farmers of the north end of the county and on Sunday farmers of the south half of the county gathered at Heppner for a picnic and farm tour of the Willow creek district.

A short program was held at the Boardman high school at 11 o'clock. Charles W. Smith, assistant state county agent leader, Judge Bert Johnson and County Agent C. D. Conrad participated in the program. Mr. Smith emphasized the benefits derived from such meetings and discussed with the people the improvements that had been made in the last several years and the possibility of new agricultural trends. Judge Johnson discussed the tax situation, county roads and other items which come before the county court.

Pot-luck dinner was served at the Greenfield grange hall.

Following the dinner the crowd went to Paul Smith's where the county agent discussed and pointed out the important characteristics in dairy heifers and market hogs. Other places visited on the tour included pasture crops at the M. L. Myers farm, corn and truck crops at John Preuter's, cossack alfalfa at Mr. Miller's, hybrid corn, beardless barley and smutless oats at W. N. Nickerson's, ladak alfalfa, sweet clover and electric fencing at Vic Myers, and general farmstead at Mr. Root's.

Plans had been made for visiting the forage nursery and corn trial at Irrigon, but there were only two people from Irrigon attended the tour and as time was limited these trials were not visited.

More than 250 people gathered at the Rodeo grounds in Heppner Sunday morning to witness a softball game between the Rhea Creek grange and a team from Heppner. It looked like the grangers were going to exterminate the town challengers but when the latter finally hit their stride the tables were turned and Heppner came out victorious.

Following the ball game the crowd moved to the mess hall at Camp Heppner where a pot-luck dinner was enjoyed. Rhea Creek, Lexington and Willows granges each furnished five gallons of ice cream for the picnic and the CCC furnished coffee and cookies. C. D. Conrad, county agent, acted as master of ceremonies, introducing as speakers Wesley Spencer, area conservationist from Pendleton; Vida Heliker, Morrow county pomona lecturer; Mrs. Grace Turner, manager of the Lexington Oil Co-op, and Charles W. Smith.

Following the lunch and program eighteen automobiles started on a tour which extended up Hinton creek to the Cleveland farm where gully control work was observed, and Mr. Kistner, camp superintendent, explained such work; then to Wightman Bros. dairy for a short look at an old stand of bulbous bluegrass; then to Manuel Petteys' farm at Jordan where clean culture work on morning glories was observed; then to the Frank Holub farm at Ione to observe an eradication trial on Russian knapweed.

Both of these meetings were well attended and everyone appeared interested in the agricultural work that is being done in Morrow county by the various services and by the farmers themselves.

It was suggested by Mr. Smith that as soon as results warrant on the

M. L. CASE ELECTED LION PRESIDENT

Veteran Business Man Chosen At Monday Election to Head Civic Group Ensuing Year.

M. L. Case, veteran business man and a charter member of the local chapter, was chosen president of the Lions club at the annual election held Monday noon. Other officers elected at the meeting included first vice president, B. C. Pinckney; second vice president, W. C. Rosewall; third vice president, Tom Wells; secretary-treasurer, Lee Howell; lion tamer, Lt. Marius Hanford; tail twister, George Howard, and two directors, Dr. A. D. McMurdo and Ray P. Kinne.

Lion Lee Howell explained sections of the federal housing act, dwelling particularly upon section two which he felt comes nearer meeting the requirements of local financing conditions.

There will be no meeting next Monday, July 3, and on Monday, July 17, the Lions will have a dinner meeting at Camp Heppner as guests of the CCC. The clubbers will dine with the enrollees.

Fire Hazard Great

Fire season in the national forests opens July 1. That means camp fire permits, shovels, water buckets and other tools specified by the forest service for all users of the forests.

Due to the extremely dry condition prevailing in the mountains this year it is necessary that every possible precaution be taken to prevent the starting of fires. It is up to every individual. Don't think "it can't happen to me." It can. So don't throw lighted matches down or out of the car window; don't empty live ashes from your pipe directly onto the ground—use your ash tray for that purpose and for depositing cigarette butts; and above all, don't leave a camp fire unattended and never abandon camp until the last spark is extinguished.

Cooperation on the part of every individual using the forest areas is essential if the present season is to pass without disastrous fires. Man has no control over the actions of nature and timber destruction from that source is costly enough without adding the carelessness of mankind to the burden.

Be a good woodsman, and thus a better citizen.

Woodsaw and Wedge Figure in Accidents

A woodsaw and a steel wedge figured in accidents which brought two men to Heppner for medical treatment Tuesday.

Frank E. Parker, Heppner flat farmer, is at Heppner hospital recovering from the effects of losing one finger, part of another and severe lacerations to a third finger on his left hand, the result of getting his hand tangled with a power woodsaw. The little finger was entirely severed, part of the third finger was cut off and the middle finger was badly lacerated.

Cecil Lutkins came in from his ranch seven miles south of Hardman to have a bad cut on his arm sewed up. Lutkins was piling wood while another man nearby was splitting blocks with the aid of a mallet and a wedge. A sliver from the steel wedge struck Lutkins' arm, making an incision which required five stitches to close. He was certain the slug had lodged in his arm but an x-ray revealed that the sliver had passed through.

forage nurseries and corn trials at Irrigon a similar tour be held in that community which will probably be the latter part of July or the first of August.

Murder, Suicide, Fire Figure in Week-end Tragedy

Coroner Jury Blames Arthur Ashinhurst In Double Slaying

"We find that Arlaine Harvey came to her death between the hours of 12 noon, June 22, and 5 a. m., June 23, at a place unknown but probably in the vicinity of Granite, Grant county, Oregon, by means of a blow struck with a sharp instrument in the right temple at the hands of and by said Arthur Ashinhurst."

"Arthur Ashinhurst came to his death shortly before 5 a. m. June 23 as a result of a self-inflicted bullet wound from a revolver found at his side at the Ashinhurst ranch in Sand Hollow, Morrow county."

Thus did the coroner's jury fix in brief the blame for the tragedy which apparently started with murder in Grant county and came to a finale in Sand Hollow, this county, when the Ashinhurst house burned to the ground leaving two charred bodies as grim evidence of the killer's determination to accomplish certain death for himself after having destroyed the girl he professed to love.

Evidence obtained from witnesses at the coroner's inquest, which required most of two days, pointed to the slaying of the girl by Ashinhurst near Granite, a wild night drive to the house in Sand Hollow where, apparently about 5 o'clock in the morning, he carried her dead body into the house and placed it on a bed, returned to the car from which he drained the gasoline, returned to the house with the gasoline, scattered it over bedding and furniture, ignited it and then reclining on the bed beside the dead girl, fired a bullet into his own brain. That, in brief, is the general reconstruction of the story of what happened between noon on Thursday, June 22, and 5 a. m., June 23.

Ashinhurst and Miss Harvey were at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Myers, near Granite Thursday morning. About 11 o'clock they decided to drive into Granite to get the mail. Myers asked Ashinhurst to bring out some nails. As the afternoon wore on and the pair did not return, the Myers' became a little worried and drove to Granite and found the pair had not been seen after 12 o'clock. In her testimony Mrs. Myers related that she heard a car in the afternoon that sounded like Ashinhurst's. It apparently was climbing the hill nearby on an unused road. It is thought possible that Ashinhurst and the girl had quarreled about leaving Granite and returning to this county or going elsewhere and that there might have been a struggle prior to his driving up the hill. No one saw or heard the car return down the hill and supposition is that if Miss Harvey had been slain before Ashinhurst drove up the hill he remained there until dark and then started for Sand Hollow. He possibly remained there until near midnight. $t requires five hours or more to cover the distance between Granite and Heppner under normal driving conditions, as proved by Norman Myers, who clocked his drive from there to Heppner when summoned by Sheriff Bauman and found by hard driving he had made it in five and one-half hours.

Testimony submitted at the inquest revealed that Ashinhurst, who was more than 43 years of age but contended to the girl and her family that he was only 30, was extremely jealous and that he had more than once stated that if he couldn't have her no other man would. He had been making love to her for about four years, it was stated, and
