Hefty Wind Vendor, Dentist Rumored For Rodeo Clash

Dr. Richard C. Lawrence, local D. M. D., has challenged Bob "Fat Boy" Runnion to a bulldogging contest to be held each day of the Rodeo. The man with the best three-day average will be declared winner. Horses to be ridden by contestants Lawrence and Runnion are difficult to locate; however, Lou Bisbee reported that he had found two horses in Grant county large enough to accommodate the torsos of Messrs. Lawrence and Runnion.

If Dr. Lawrence wins the contest, he will be given the privilege of pulling his opponent's teeth, genuine or false, during intermission at the final Rodeo dance. Should Senor Runnion emerge victor, he will be given the permission of personally removing the somewhat scarce but remaining hair from his adversary's head and auctioning it off to dance patrons. The doctor expects to weigh in at 280 pounds for the contest, while Mr. Runnion expressed hopes of getting down to 260 pounds.
