Convention Held in Heppner

The Young People's Fellowship held their annual convention in Heppner last week end. The towns represented were Pendleton, Bend, The Dalles and Heppner. The meetings were held in the Episcopal church Saturday morning and afternoon. Many interesting topics were discussed and a complete program planned for the coming year. A dance was held in the Parish House Saturday night, with music by the high school sound system. All the students of the high school were invited and quite a large number attended.

The convention disbanded Sunday noon and everyone went home with the intention of doing more and better work in their respective Y. P. F.s.

To the Editor—

For the past several years this writer has taken the time to see what kind of an attitude the students have relative to the teachers of their school. When the students do not get their way, they take an attitude that is not at all wholesome. The faculty cannot help it if they have to be a little strict. It's their business to see that the school is run on an equal basis at all times, and of course the students do not see this. If we were in the faculty's shoes right at the present, we would probably be so strict that the school would be a mad house but now our present teachers have no thought or intention of becoming so strict that it would ruin their school. They know their rights and the rights of the students, so why should we blame the faculty?

To the Editor—

The item in the preceeding paper objecting to the punishment given football players for skipping school seemed to have a strange slant on school life.

Why should football players be exempt from penalties inflicted for skipping school any more than anyone else? It is true that a game uses up large quantities of energy; but will it tax their supply of energy to too great an extent if they sit through two shortened classes before a game?

After all, the teachers are hired to run the school and why not let them do it? Just because some students go out for football is no reason why they should be pampered along in order that we may have a contented team.

Initiation Planned

Plans for the initiation of Greenhands into the F. F. A. have been discussed, and it has been decided that the initiation will be held today in the school gym. Several different plans for initiation have been discussed and, all in all, it promises to be a nice hot one for those being initiated. There are only 16 Future Farmers to initiate the 15 Greenhands. The Greenhands are composed of the boys taking their first year of the Future Farmers organization. The Future Farmers are the Greenhands taking a second year in the F. F. A. Bruce Lindsay has been taking a very active part in the management of the F. F. A. Cooperation by inquiring for prices on feed, other supplies, and beef steers form the project.

To the Editor—

A little late, I suppose, since it has been quite a few days since the annual clash between the freshman and sophomore classes, but as a saying goes, "better late than never at all."

Myself, and the rest of the freshman boys are very thankful that at least the girls of our class are outstanding in athletics over the sophomores of their own sex. I state this because as you know these girls won all the contests which they competed in, while the boys were lucky, (very lucky indeed) to win just one event.

As a rule girls' sports are mostly kept in the background in H. H. S., but with this group of girls behind them, the various girls teams would most likely be out in front.

Those graduates of last year who are attending schools of higher learning are: Betty Happold, Bill Barratt, Frances McCarty and Dick Wilkinson, O. S. C.; Thomas Gonty, Los Angeles Airplane Designing; John Crawford, U. of O.; Bob Scrivner, La Grande School of Education; Joan Wright, Northwestern, Portland.

Senior Play

A mystery-farce in three acts, "House of Horrors," was chosen last week to be presented by the senior class. Many laughs and thrills will be presented, under the direction of Norbert Peavy.

The cast is as follows: Janice Cantrell, N. Prock; Chloe Clark, S. Wilson; Guppy, H. Armstrong; Mrs. Shump, J. Phelps; Marya, D. Howell; Dick, J. Merrill; Singh, D. Jones; Randolph Cantrell, W. Worden; Herbie Hippeer, B. Blake; Wanda Wilde, L. Jones; Pansy, M. Doolittle, Vorloff, H. Wray.

H-Club Sponsors Assembly

A very interesting assembly was held Friday by the H-Club after the student body meeting. For the first act, a trio of Howard Wray, Don Bennett and Hugh Crawford gave their version of the "Isle of Capri." Following that Shirley Wilson and Bill Blake gave a very interesting and humorous skit. The program ended following three duets on clarinet and saxophone by Richard Hayes and Clifford Fay, accompanied on the piano by Dorothy Howell. Because of their failure to wear loud sox on junior loud sox day, several juniors were required to give a short skit.

Sports Chatter

Many watchers of Pacific Coast Conference football were much surprised by several upsets over the week end. The University of Oregon, hardly considered as a strong team, led the Trojans of Southern California, last year's Rose Bowl champions, 7-0 until late in the last quarter. Doyle Nave, Rose Bowl hero, passed his team to a 7-7 tie. For Oregon, Jay Grabeal, last year a very erratic player, turned in a surprisingly brilliant performance with his passing and running.

The University of California received a surprise when they were beaten 6-0 by a College of Pacific team, coached by Alonzo Stagg, the "Grand Old Man of Football." The California team was playing a double-header and probably didn't take the game seriously.

I won't give Mr. Peavy any satisfaction by mentioning Stanford's 12-0 shellacking at Oregon State's hands.

Week-End Flashes

Hugh hurt his leg in the game Saturday, so as a result he acquired the car. (His dad knew Hugh didn't use any gas.)

Have you noticed Norval's stiff neck. He nearly broke it looking twice at a girl in Pendleton.

It seems as if Cupid darn near wore his arm out on Dubby and Mary Eleanor Saturday night. Looks like the foundations of a good romance. (It makes good reading, too.)

Jack Vaughn's height isn't the only thing that has grown. His nerve seems to have grown considerably more. Alex was left holding the empty sack (or shall we say, front seat, last Saturday night. Eh, Cora?)

Did you know that Wanda H. has interests in the boys' tennis champion. (Be careful, Don.)

Home Ec Room Remodeled

Recent improvements in the Home Economics room in the basement make work much easier for the girls in the Home Ec classes. The old dish cupboard was removed and a nice new set of veneer-board cupboards were built over the sink. This is a much more convenient arrangement. A new linoleum was placed on the floor which makes the kitchen much easier to keep clean, and is easier to stand on because it is padded.

Fashions

Jeanette Blakely topped the fashions of last week in a green knit, wool skirt, white blouse, maroon, hand knit wool sweater, white anklets and black saddle oxfords.

For the boy's fashions of the week Bill Blake set the pace. In a blue silk sport shirt and blue trousers Bill made a very nice appearance.

Of course we will have to mention Donnie Bennett in his father's overlarge pajama tops and blue swimming trunks. Very smart, Donnie!

Student Body Meets

The second student body meeting of the year was held Friday, Sept. 29. It was found we have about $140 in the treasury. It was voted to send flowers to La Verne Van Marter who is ill in Portland with infantile paralysis.

The meeting was followed by an H-Club assembly and stunts given by the juniors who neglected to wear loud stockings.

Two pedestrians met death in Oregon during the month of August this year, compared to three for the same month last year, Earl Snell, secretary of state, revealed today. One pedestrian was killed as he was crossing an intersection without a traffic signal while the other met death while crossing a highway.
