O.S.C. Studying Latin American Scholarships

Oregon State College—Eleven North and South American republics, in addition to the United States, have so far ratified a program for exchange scholarships as provided in a convention for the promotion of inter-American cultural relations, according to word received by President George W. Peavy from the state department at Washington, D. C.

President Peavy had inquired about the plans for the exchange scholarships with Latin-American republics in view of the start this institution has already made in such exchanges. The second exchange student from Chile is now attending Oregon State and the second American student from this campus will go to Chile for the start of next school year at the University of Chile.

Under the international convention, provision is made for the annual exchange of two graduate students or teachers and one professor by the United States and each of the other republics which have ratified the program, according to Ben N. Cherrington, chief of the division of cultural relations in the state department. Countries which have already ratified this are Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, and Venezuela.

The officials at Oregon State are studying the plan preparatory to assisting students interested to make application for such government scholarships. No limitation is placed on the field of study to be pursued.

MISS HAPFOLD HONORED

Oregon State College, Corvallis, November 22—Betty Marie Hapfold, freshman in lower division from Heppner, was one of 44 freshmen women honored at a banquet given on November 15 by Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholastic honor society for sophomore women. These freshmen women have made at least three-fourth A's with no grade below B or the equivalent, during their high school course. Dr. E. W. Warrington, professor of philosophy and religion, was the guest speaker of the affair.

Attention Men: Did you ever wonder about what women talk about when they're alone? Or see a hair-pulling contest over a man? Or peek behind the scenes of a beauty salon? You'll find a laugh a second in THE WOMEN, coming to the Star Theater, Sunday and Monday.

To Our Subscribers:

WE RETURN TO THE

Paid-in-Advance Basis

January 1, 1940

THE PUBLISHERS deeply appreciate the considerate reception and generous response given our field contact representative in the last few weeks. Especially encouraging have been the compliments paid the paper itself, which make the publishers feel their efforts to give Morrow County a live local newspaper have not been fruitless.

Days of depression, in which this paper attempted to "give" as well as "take," caused discontinuance of the "paid-in-advance" policy of subscription accounts for several years, and to give credit to those who desired to have the paper keep coming. Due to this situation, a serious number of arrearages accrued, necessitating special collection effort, not only to bring in needed revenue, but to comply with federal postal regulations.

Believing that both the newspaper and the subscriber will be benefitted by such a policy in future, as well as to prevent infringement of postal regulations which jeopardize this papers' mailing privileges, we are returning to a strictly "paid-in-advance" policy of subscription accounts beginning January 1, 1940, at which time any account six months or more in arrears will be closed and the subscription discontinued.

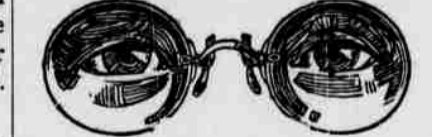

After January 1, 1940, each subscriber will receive notice 30 days prior to date of subscription expiration, and no subscription account will be carried for more than six months.

Again we thank all our subscribers for their favorable consideration.
