The local B squad also won their game 24-11.

Howard Wray was high point man with seven points.

The starting line-up was as follows: Harry O'Donnell (6), Douglas Drake (3), Norval Osborn (6), John Skuzeski (3), Hugh Crawford (5). Substitutes: Howard Wray (7), Claude Snow (2), Bob Pinckney (4), Bill Blake (1), Jack Merrill (2).

As you can readily see, the football season was very unsuccessful financially.

WHY? You might ask yourself the question, because you might have been the cause of it. Did you sell any tickets for the games? Did you even tell people about the coming games?

The basketball season has to take the red ink off our ledger, so turn out for the games and sell some tickets.

Sports Summary—1939

On September 22, after 13 days of hard, grinding practice and cramming of plays and signals, the Heppner Mustangs engaged in a pigskin battle with Fossil on our own field. Heppner played a close, exciting game, defeating Fossil 13-12.

The next game at Pendleton on September 30 brought disastrous results for Heppner, with a 42-0 loss.

The team next journeyed to Enterprise to win a victory over that A school, 12-0.

Condon met a 20-0 defeat when they played on Heppners' field on October 3.

Heppner's B team proved itself efficient when they defeated Lexington by 31-14 in a six-man football game on Lexington's field.

In a very close and hard fought game, Heppner was lucky enough to defeat Arlington by one point on October 24. The score was 20-19.

Again Heppner was victorious over Condon by a score of 18-0 on Condon's home field.

In the largest attended game of the year, the Mustangs again proved victorious in the annual Armistice clash with Hermiston. The score was 25-7.

Heppner played an extra game at Arlington to give the Honkers a chance to avenge the defeat they met at the hands of the Mustangs. This they did by a score of 19-12.

For the entire season Heppner had 151 points to their opponents' 113.

Facts About Our Students

Jack Merrill is 17 years old and was born on April 3, 1922, in Toppenish, Wash. Jack is vice-president of the band and secretary-treasurer of the H club. He played right half on the football team and is now turning out for basketball. His favorite sport is football.

When asked to describe his ideal girl, Jack said, "Describe Norma Prock."

Jack's favorites are: actor, Gary Cooper; actress, Lana Turner (red-head in "These Glamour Girls"); teacher, Mr. Peavy; dish, tenderloin steak; color, blue; subject, Public Speaking; song, "Baby Me, and picture, "Lost Horizon."

Jack's hobby is souvenir collecting, of anything that is not fastened. His ambition is to have an orchestra famous as Benny Goodman's. On completing high school, Jack plans to attend Oregon State to major in aeronautical engineering. He wants to minor in music.

During his spare time, Jack works as cook or waiter in his father's restaurant. Jack is also leader of Merrill's orchestra.

When asked his opinion of the school paper, Jack picked out the sport page. He feels that the sports writer favors the same people all the time.

Football Dance Scheduled

When the Home Ec meeting was held last week, it was a debated question whether to have a football or basketball banquet. After much discussion a football dance was arranged for December 2. Admission will be twenty-five cents a couple, or fifteen cents each. So boys, bring your best girl friend and save a nickel.

A basketball banquet and dance will be given at the close of the basketball season. We need a center piece for the main table, so boys, bring home the trophy; we can use all you can win.

And eats for the coming dance—you know one can't refuse eats. Punch and cookies will fill in at intermission. A program will also be furnished, but as yet no definite plans have been forthcoming, and you will be pleasantly surprised if you don't know everything.

Fashions

Plaid shirts for the boys and knitted sweaters for the girls hit an all time high in sportswear this week. Lois Jones and Rita Robinson wore blue knit sweaters, and Anna Marie, a black knit one with a white angora collar.

Norval, Jimmy, Claude and Art sported the bright colors for the boys.

Several very smart costumes made their appearance during and immediately after the Thanksgiving holidays. Among these were a smart, blue silk ensemble worn by Kingsley Chapin and a striking, plain dark dress with white collar and cuffs worn by Helen Healy.

In her second year of high school and her first year here. Is the heart beat for many freshmen as well as certain juniors. Loves green; we wonder why?

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Great Britain is showing its appreciation for repeal of the embargo (making U. S. an arsenal for the allies) by cancelling concessions to the United States under the trade treaty. It has applied an import embargo on 19 items; controls on 27, and import licenses on 42. Before the reciprocal trade agreement the 88 items represented $250,808,000 sold by the United States to the British.

On the embargo list, affecting Oregon and Washington, are fresh apples representing $7,330,000; fresh pears, $3,426,000; canned asparagus and tomato juice, $404,000.

On the control list, with value of exports before the treaty: Timber, $16,651,000; wheat, $8,312,000; feed-stuffs, $483,000; dried fruits, (prunes) $5,649,000; canned salmon, $6,352,000.

Items for which licenses must be obtained: Honey, canned beans, hides, skins.

The reciprocal trade agreement cut down Pacific northwest exports to the United Kingdom; now the British cut out supplies from Oregon and Washington almost entirely.

Unemployment benefits of Social Security board amount to $9,508,333 in Oregon since Jan. 1, 1938, to the first of the present month. For Washington the board reports payments of $5,106,980 since last January to November 1. Washington was a year later than Oregon in complying with Social Security requirements. Claims were paid in Oregon to 25,240 persons; in Washington to 27,773 in past ten months.

Two Oregon state-wide WPA projects have been approved as eligible for funds by the president. One project, estimated to cost $68,605, is to receive, store and transport packages and account for food and other surplus commodities allocated to state public relief by federal, state or other agencies. The second project, to cost $27,810, is to transcribe, tabulate and summarize economic and basic data on present land use and tenure, prepare maps, record assessed valuation and distribution of livestock and assemble information on tax delinquency as associated with land use. Sponsor for this project is Oregon State college.

Oregon's 150 acres cultivating cranberries are the most productive of any such acreage in the United States, according to the bureau of agricultural economics. Oregon's acreage is relatively small but highly prolific, an acre averaging 40 barrels, just double the productivity per acre of Washington's 11,000 acres. New Jersey growers are fortunate to pick three barrels to the acre.

Federal maritime commission is so disgusted with its experience on the west coast that it plans trying to sell the government's ships which have been leased to private operators and furnishing service between Puget Sound and the orient. Members of the commission explain that they are constantly having disputes with the union, and rather than continue the arguments they prefer withdrawing from active participation in the operation of ship lines out of Pacific coast ports.

On November 1 there were 10,954,000 boxes of apples in cold storage in the United States. Washington state had eight out of every ten of these boxes. Oregon's share of the total was 989,000 boxes.

One of the issues of the campaign next year will be the reciprocal trade agreements. From the Pacific to the Mississippi river it will be a live topic. Protest against the way Pacific northwest products have been treated by Secretary of State Hull have been filed by Senators Bone and Schwollenbach of Washington, Senators McNary and Holman of Oregon, Senators Johnson and Downey of California. First skirmish will come when congress meets in regular session in January, to be followed by the congressional elections later.

Only 15.8 per cent of all land in Washington state is available for cultivation, and of the total state acreage only 8.7 per cent is actually under plow. Number of acres used for crops is 3,733,099 out of 42,775,040. In Oregon only 8 per cent is available for cultivation and only 5.1 per cent is being used. Oregon's cultivated acreage is 3,112,168 out of a total of 61,188,480, according to the bureau of census. Nevada ranks lowest of all, with but 0.4 per cent of its entire area cultivated; Arizona next with 0.7; Wyoming 2.8. Nor is California so "hot." Of that advertised garden spot only 11.7 per cent is available for cultivation and but 7.1 per cent of the state's acreage is used for crops.

These statistics will form part of an argument made next spring in congress in justification for insisting the federal government pay taxes on its holdings in the 11 western states. Figures are from the census bureau.

WPA PROJECT ALLOTTED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29—To improve the county road system of Baker county, repair bridges and ditches, landscape, an appropriation of $121,115 is approved by the president for a WPA project. Determination of whether the project will be initiated depends on the available suitable labor and other conditions which must be ascertained by the state WPA administrator, E. J. Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Ray of Salem visited over the Thanksgiving week end at the home of Mrs. Ray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cowins. Mrs. Ray was formerly Miss Lydia Cowins.
