

March of Dimes Grows in Favor With Americans

Proceeds from This Source Amounted to $217,000 in 1939

In the campaign to raise funds for the national Infantile Paralysis foundation, no method has appealed to the public mind more than the "March of Dimes," a measure which was started in 1938. In the two seasons this method has been followed $298,000 has been contributed to the campaign fund to fight the dread disease.

The idea will be widely used this year, according to information received from headquarters where Commissioner George Allen of the District of Columbia has recently been appointed national chairman. Allen will work in close cooperation with all state, county and city chairmen in order to make the work as far reaching as possible.

The first "March of Dimes" in 1938 resulted in a total of over $81,000 in silver coins being sent personally by thousands of people to President Roosevelt at the White House for the fund. Other contributions through the sale of buttons and through contributions in coin containers swelled this sum. Last year, the silver parade of dimes converged on the White House from every corner of the land reaching stupendous proportions of over $217,000. Other "March of Dimes" contributions in checks and bills added substantially to that figure.

The same plan of distributing the funds will be followed in this campaign as last year. One-half of all of the "March of Dimes" contributions will be returned to the counties where raised, the other half going to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Arrangements have been made so that every contribution, no matter how small, will be duly recorded and one-half will be returned to the county in which it originated. Furthermore, the portion of the card bearing the sender's name and address will be returned to the county from which it was sent.

Stories of courage, hope and tragedy pour constantly into national headquarters of the committee from the chairmen of county chapters scattered throughout the United States, states Keith Morgan, national campaign chairman. Among these he cites cases from two points in Oregon, Union and Klamath counties. Mrs. George Hutchinson of Union county tells this story:

"We have a young woman, 21 years of age, who is an orphan. She has been afflicted by infantile paralysis since she was 11 years old. We are getting new braces for her so that she will be much more able to help herself. The vocational training organization has agreed to prepare her for some occupation and make her self-supporting. She graduated from high school with an exceptionally good record. All her studying was done at home. We feel that we are rehabilitating one person for as nearly a normal life as can be achieved under the circumstances."

Sam P. Miller, chairman of Klamath county chapter, writes: "We have handled three cases. One patient is a girl 14 years old, paralyzed from the waist down. At chapter expense she was sent to a hospital in Portland. After treatment she was sent home cured, fully able to live a normal life."

"For the past two years we have been helping a woman who receives treatment in a Portland hospital. We pay her fare and other necessary expenses."

Here in Heppner plans have been completed for the annual President's Birthday ball which will be held Saturday evening, Jan. 27 in the Elks hall. Tickets are on sale and it is expected that a crowd equal to that of 1939 will be on hand for the event. The local subscription to the paralysis fund was swelled by $175 thru sale of dance tickets last year.

Miss Eskelson is Bride of Mr. Lulay

St. Patrick's Catholic church in Heppner was the scene of a beautiful wedding Tuesday morning, January 9 when Miss Zelma Eskelson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eskelson of Lone Rock, became the bride of Mr. Vincent J. Lulay of Sublimity. The service was read by Rev. Father Richard J. Healy.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Anna Lulay of Sublimity was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Nonie McLaughlin and Betty Doherty. The groom was attended by his brother, Herbert Lulay, and ushers were Lawrence Frank and Harold Wolf of Sublimity.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Lucas Place. The table was tastefully decorated with white crysanthemums and white candles. The three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride.

The couple left Tuesday afternoon on a wedding trip to Portland, Seattle and possibly California. They plan to make their home in Stayton, Oregon, where Mr. Lulay is interested in a mill.

The bride attended school in Heppner and at Mt. Angel college from which school she is a graduate.

Out of town guests were Miss Marie Lulay of Sublimity, sister of the bridegroom; the bride's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Hynd of Ukiah, and Mrs. Opal Ayers of Arlington.

Farmers, City Men Air Mutual Problems

A new approach to a mutual understanding of the various problems which confront both farm and city people of Oregon is being made through a series of "farmer-businessman" meetings which had their beginning in Yamhill and Umatilla counties in December and now are expected to spread to virtually every county in the state.

The meetings, as held at McMinnville and Pendleton, were sponsored by the county agricultural conservation committees, with the O. S. C. extension service and county planning committees cooperating. City residents were guests of farmers at evening dinners which were followed by open forum discussion of local agricultural problems. A similar plan is being followed in other Oregon counties which are now planning meetings.

Dinner and discussion meetings of farm and city people, held on both a county and community basis, were tried in several other states last year and were regarded as very successful in bringing better understanding of mutual problems, according to Will Steen of Milton, chairman of the state AAA committee.

"I'm glad to see that they're being adopted in Oregon counties," he said. "The state committee hopes that every county in Oregon will hold one or more meetings of farm and city people this winter so that they can get better acquainted with each other and with their general problems."
