Kenneth Binns Dies in Seattle

Kenneth Binns, 41, Seattle Times sports writer and a native of Heppner, dropped dead en route to work Friday, Feb. 16, according to news dispatches emanating from Seattle.

First reports sent over the radio indicated that Binns might have been a hit-run victim, but a partial autopsy showed he died of a heart and artery hardening condition. He was found, face down, on the graveled parking strip of a service station, a few blocks from his Montlake houseboat, where he was accustomed to wait for a ride to work with a friend. There was a bruise on his head and some cuts on his fingers.

Kenneth Lee Binns was born in Heppner January 19, 1899, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Binns. He received his primary education in Heppner, where he "deviled" in the old Herald office. A member of the class of 1918, Heppner high school, he left his high school work uncompleted to enlist in the army at the time of the World war and the duration of his service was spent at Camp Kearney, Cal. He later attended Oregon State college for two years, leaving college to become reporter on the Portland News, later sporting editor of the Portland Telegram. The last ten years of his life were spent in Seattle on the staff of the Times. He was an ardent mountain climber, skier, hunter and fisherman, and wrote on these subjects for the Times and for national periodicals.

Surviving, besides his mother, Mrs. A. E. Binns of 21 Southwest Twenty-fourth avenue, Portland, is a daughter, Betty Lee Binns, who lives with her mother, Binns' divorced wife, Mrs. Hazel Binns, 2021 Northeast Twelfth avenue, Portland.

It is recalled that the Binns family lived in the path of the Heppner flood of June 14, 1903, and that Mr. Binns saved Kenneth, a lad of four years, by carrying him out of the mud and water on his shoulders.

Game Commission Sets Fishing Date

Morrow county will experience no changes in fishing regulations from those in force last year, as is the case in Wallowa and Harney counties, where the commission found present regulations suitable. The opening date for the general trout season in the state was set for April 13 by the commission when it met last week to establish the 1940 angling regulations. The closing date is October 15.

The general bag limit for lakes and streams will be 15 pounds and one fish but not to exceed 15 fish in any one day, or 30 pounds and one fish but not to exceed 30 fish in any seven consecutive days or in possession at any one time.

A complete tabulation of the open and closed waters will be issued by the game commission in printed form within the next few weeks.
