

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Unless the senate restores funds eliminated by the house in department of agriculture appropriation bill a number of activities in the Pacific northwest will be curtailed. For example take the weather: Most severe storms come from out of the Pacific northwest, sweeping in from the ocean. Vessel weather reporting service is "out." In addition to its aid to agriculture this service is a safety aid for aviation from Seattle to San Francisco; from Portland to Salt Lake City—and all airways carrying mail and passengers.

There will be elimination of river and flood forecasts on the Columbia. No funds are available for checking epidemic diseases of Douglas fir and larch; all cooperation with states for control of insects affecting men and animals diseases and very limited will be the scouting to detect infestations of forest insects. No funds are available to develop small ponds and reservoirs.

No more money for loans to tenant farmers. In Oregon loans have been made in Linn, Lane, Jackson, Clackamas, Lincoln, Malheur, Wallowa counties, total $283,000. In Washington a greater sum has been loaned. Nothing in the bill for parity payments (estimated 1940 obligations, Washington $2,000,000; Oregon $1,300,000).

Without ballyhoo a conference was held in Chicago a few days ago at which the issue involved was whether a new heavy industry would be justified in being launched in the Columbia valley area. The conference continued for two days, was attended by specialists and technical advisers, and when and if the decision is favorable all the money necessary will be furnished by one of the major financial houses of the country. There has been no indication as to when the jury will come in with the verdict. It will mean a big payroll if all goes well.

Commercial interests of the Pacific northwest may be credited with having defeated any move in congress to place an embargo on exports to Japan. The bill proposed by Senator Schwollenbach of Washington would have embargoed everything except agricultural items; Senator Pittman's bill would stop all shipments to Japan. Willingness of their colleagues to save face of the two senators prevented the foreign relations committee from summarily rejecting both proposals, and nothing will now be done until the state department gives the word. It is felt that relations between the United States and Japan are sufficiently delicate without inviting further irritation by an embargo, and action on the bills has been indefinitely postponed.

Senator Holman of Oregon is still waiting for the senate to act on his resolution authorizing an investigation of the immigration service. Although the resolution is on ice, it has received publicity and letters have come from many parts of the country making suggestions. Several from California are proposing that the inquiry delve into the reasons why Secretary of Labor Perkins has for years refused to approve of starting deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, CIO west coast leader. The administration does not look with favor on Holman's intended probe.

If anyone thinks there is gas or oil in Oregon, Washington or Idaho, on the public domain, the general land office will make a lease (filing fees from $10 to $32) permitting prospecting, and if deposits are discovered the finders will be permitted to develop the property. Casual prospects have been made in the past without making a commercial strike, and the government is now willing to encourage the curious.

The market agreement program is more popular on the Pacific coast than anywhere. Leading group consists of 14,000 walnut growers in California, Oregon and Washington with a farm value crop (1939) of $11,240,000; western Washington vegetables 1300 growers, crop $1,150,000; Oregon cauliflower 300 growers, crop $90,000; Oregon and Washington fresh prunes 600 growers, crop $380,000; Oregon, Washington and California hops growers, crop $5,550,000; same states fall and winter pear growers 3,000, crop value $1,600,000.

In the national capital there is a firm conviction among 90 persons that Roosevelt will be nominated for a third term with the best chance of any Democrat to be elected. There is more doubt about electing Roosevelt than there is about his nomination.

Vice President Garner is determined to prevent Mr. Roosevelt's nomination (he made Roosevelt's nomination possible in 1932), and if he cannot win himself he will throw his delegates to someone like Farley or Montana's Wheeler, but not to Cordell Hull.

Inside groups of the White House circle are looking to the Commonwealth Federation in Washington and Oregon to look after Mr. Roosevelt's interests in the Pacific northwest.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You

No. 15 of a Series

WE WANT YOU TO FEEL AT HOME
wherever good beer is sold

The Brewing Industry realizes that decent, respectable people prefer to patronize decent, inviting places.

And we agree with them.

That is why we are taking action—in cooperation with law enforcement authorities—to "clean-up or close-up" beer retail establishments that disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.

To do this we have instituted a new self-regulation plan now in operation in a few states and being extended as rapidly as possible.

We think you will be interested in knowing something about this program. May we tell you about it in an interesting free booklet?
