J. J. Kamrar, representing the Loyalty Group insurance companies of Portland, was a business visitor in Heppner Tuesday and Wednesday. This is the company of which Creston Maddock is field representative. Maddock usually covers this territory but right at this time the state basketball tournament is under way at Salem and "Cres" found business more inviting in that vicinity. W. V. "Bill" Crawford is office manager for the group, giving Heppner a good representation in the Loyalty office in Portland.

College students are expected home this week end to spend the Easter vacation. Among those mentioned are Betty Happold and Frances McCarty from Oregon State college, Paul McCarty, John Crawford, Clifford Carlson and Joe Green from University of Oregon, and Kathryn Paker, Robert Scrivner, Fred Hoskins and Katherine Griffith from the Eastern Oregon College of Education.

Mrs. B. C. Forsythe arrived in Heppner Tuesday night to spend the rest of the week with her daughter, Miss Rachel Forsythe, teacher in the Heppner school. Mrs. Forsythe accompanied her husband to Salem where he is attending the basketball tournament and will join him there the end of the week. Mr. Forsythe is high school principal in Ashland.

Chas. D. Simpson and Melvin Burke of Baker were guests at Hotel Heppner Wednesday night. They are from the grazing department of the forest service and were interviewing users of the Whitman national forest from this vicinity.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will hold the March meeting at the church on Monday evening, March 18. A missionary play will be presented. The public is invited to attend.

E. R. Lundell, George Ely and Judge Bert Johnson of Ione and Fred Ely of Morgan were in Heppner Monday evening to attend a meeting of the Morrow County Republican club at the court house.

C. R. McAlister left for Portland Sunday to be gone a week or so. He is seeking medical advice while in the city. During his absence, Hank Howell is acting as chief engineer at the Masonic building.

J. T. Ayers, former Pine City rancher and now a resident of Hermiton, was transacting business in Heppner Tuesday. Mr. Ayers still retains his ranch on Big Butter creek a few miles above Pine City.

E. M. McMillan was a Heppner visitor Wednesday. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ted McMillan. Eb, as he is familiarly known, is slowly recovering from a recent serious illness.

Mrs. J. A. Anglin drove to Yakima Wednesday of last week to spend a few days with her daughter. She was accompanied as far as Pasco by Mrs. A. J. Chaffee, who visited relatives and friends.

Spencer Corsetiere: In Heppner Tuesday and Wednesday, March 19 and 20. Inquire Mrs. Fred Lucas. In Lexington Monday, March 18, inquire Mrs. Elmer Hunt.

Visitors from the Monument section in Heppner Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Slocum. They report everything looking fine on the John Day this spring.

Everett Hadley of Hardman was brought to town the first of the week for medical attention. He slashed his left hand with an axe, severing some tendons.

Archdeacon Eric Robathan will hold morning prayer service at 11 a. m. at All Saints Episcopal church Sunday.

Town Folk Enjoy Visit With Grange

A dozen or so Heppner people were guests of Lexington grange at the regular meeting last Saturday evening. Invited for the lecturer's program, the visitors did not enter the hall until the business meeting was closed.

In addition to the program which was published in last week's paper were two other numbers, a talk by Charles Wicklander, state deputy master, who spoke on grange contests now running and pending, and Walter Skuzeski, who played two accordion numbers. O. G. Crawford spoke on "The Aims of the Chamber of Commerce," the Lions club quartet, accompanied by Marjorie Parker, sang several numbers, and Russell McNeill gave a talk on banking. A clever skit, "A Slight Misunderstanding," was given by Mrs. Henry Smouse and Mrs. J. A. Troedson. The program was followed by the serving of refreshments.

Expressions of appreciation were exchanged by visitors and hosts and a delightful evening is reported by all who attended. Visitors from Heppner included Mr. and Mrs. Ray P. Kinne, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Russell McNeill, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Crawford, Miss Marjorie Parker and Walter Skuzeski. C. J. D. Bauman is master of Lexington grange and Mrs. Grace Turner is lecturer.

Common Weed May Become Valuable

Turkey mullein, a low growing weed common in southern Oregon, may prove to be the source of a valuable insecticide similar to rotenone, if preliminary results of some research carried on at Oregon State college develop favorably. Clarence Thompson, a senior student in entomology, has been working with this plant at the suggestion of Dr. Don C. Mote, head of that department of the experiment station.

Cold water extracts of either dried leaves or roots of this plant have poisoned gold fish, just as do extracts of rotenone, the organic insecticide obtained from certain tropical plants, and now used widely in the control of such insects as the pea weevil.

Experiments will be continued this spring to see if the poison found in turkey mullein may be used like rotenone in insect control, says Dr. Mote. Rotenone is highly poisonous to insects or cold blooded animals, but is harmless to other forms of life. Technical name of turkey mullein is Piscaria sitigera.

Superintendents to Convene in Salem

Superintendent A. H. Blankenship of the Heppner public schools is a member of the committee on Vocational Education for the annual conference of city superintendents to be held in Salem on Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16, under the joint auspices of the Department of Superintendents of the Oregon State Teachers association and Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction.

E. H. Hedrick, superintendent of the Medford public schools, as president of the Department of Superintendence of the association, will preside at this conference. J. W. King, principal of the high school at La Grande, is secretary. Important committee reports will be given on the following subjects: Custodial Administration and Training; Vocational Education, Teachers Education and Training for Elementary Schools; Criteria for Evaluating Elementary Schools; and Coordination of Health Activities.

Opening address of the conference will be given by Governor Charles A. Sprague and will be followed by an address by Rex Putnam, superintendent of public instruction, and by committee reports and discussions. A banquet will be held in the dining hall of the Marion hotel on Friday evening. Following the banquet Superintendent J. T. Longfellow of Oregon City will give a report of the convention of the American Association of School Administrators held recently in St. Louis.

All general meetings of the conference will be held in the hearing room of the state capitol. It is anticipated that approximately 150 superintendents and principals will be in attendance.

Remember The Night with Barbara Stanwyck, Fred MacMurray, Beulah Bondi, Elizabeth Patterson, Willard Robertson, Sterling Holloway

We are happy to recommend this feature to all our patrons as excellent entertainment. It is a down-to-earth yarn about ordinary people, with plenty of heart-throbs and a sensational comedy wallop. (We'll bet you have a mighty "homey" feeling when Sterling Holloway sings "The End of a Perfect Day" on Christmas eve in an Indiana farm house!)
