Wehmeyer Family in Line for War Duty

If and when Uncle Sam goes into war there is one Heppner family that will be prepared to do yeoman service. At least two members of the family are now in the war zone or headed that way and others are in training or going into training shortly.

Carl Wehmeyer is radio man first class on the U. S. cruiser Vincennes, which in company with another cruiser and a battleship has been despatched to the coast of Portugal to protect American interests in the war zone. Lawrence Wehmeyer is a seaman on the U. S. battleship Mississippi now cruising in the East Indies to protect American interests and to act as a deterrent to Japan's ambitions in seizing the Dutch properties.

Edith Wehmeyer is a nurse at Fort Miles, Calif., prepared to do her bit if called to the service. Stephen Wehmeyer is a bombardier with the aviation service and is stationed at Fort Lewis, and Don will take CMTC training at Vancouver this summer. And Papa Fred thinks he isn't too old to do his bit if his services are required.

Dan Barlow was transacting business in town yesterday from his Eight Mile farm.
