Antelope Dairy Could Sell 13 Pct. Milk

If antelope gave as much milk as cows, they would be a veritable gold mine for dairymen, judging from an analysis of Oregon antelope milk recently made by Dr. J. R. Haag, agricultural chemist at Oregon State college, for the United States biological survey. The analysis showed that antelope milk has very nearly the same constituents as evaporated milk, and has even more fat.

The analysis showed total solids of 24.7 per cent in antelope milk, compared with 12.8 per cent in cow's milk, and 26.5 per cent for evaporated milk. The fat content of antelope milk was 13 per cent, compared with 3 to 5 per cent for cow's milk, and 8.2 per cent for evaporated milk. Antelope milk was also found to be about twice as high in protein as cow's milk, and practically the same as evaporated milk.

TO MANAGE SEED GROWERS

H. G. Avery, county agent of Union county, has been granted a year's leave of absence to serve as manager of the Blue Mountain Seed Growers association in the formation of which he was active several years ago. Roland W. Schaad, assistant county agent in that county, has been appointed county agent to succeed Avery.

Rural Areas High in Traffic Accidents

Eighty-one percent of the fatal accidents in Oregon during the month of June were in rural areas, according to a summary of the month's accident reports prepared by Earl Snell, secretary of state.

There were 35 deaths during the month and 624 persons were injured. Accidents totaled 2,862.

Of the 33 accidents in which deaths occurred, 27 were on rural highways, 18 on heavily traveled roads and nine on lightly traveled highways. There were three fatal accidents in business districts of cities and three in residential areas.

Of the total of 2,862 accidents, only 25 per cent occurred outside urban areas, thus one-fourth of all the traffic mishaps of the month caused more than three-fourths of the fatalities.

Pedestrian fatalities constituted 28 percent of the traffic deaths of the month, non-collision accidents accounted for 48 percent while crashes between two or more cars accounted for only 17 percent. There was one bicycle death and one motorcycle fatality. Sixty percent of the pedestrians killed in accidents were 65 years of age or older and 70 percent of those killed were engaged in some unsafe action at the time they were struck.

Intersections were the scene of nearly half the traffic crashes of the month, but only 15 percent of the fatal accidents occurred at intersections. Forty-eight percent occurred on straight-aways and 30 percent occurred on curves.

Excessive speed led the list of driver actions contributing to fatal accidents during the month with driving off the roadway second and driving on the wrong side of the highway third. Sixteen fatal accident drivers were in the 15-24 age group and 15 were in the 25-39 age group, these two groups accounting for three-fourths of the fatal accident drivers of the month.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Eslie Walker narrowly escaped serious injury at the Heppner elevator Monday noon just as he was leaving from the last load of wheat at the noon hour. The truck ran into the truck hoist, smashing in the truck cab and hood, and putting the hoist out of commission for twelve hours while it was undergoing repairs.

Ag Students Win $100 Scholarships

Twenty-five freshman students in agriculture will enter Oregon State college this fall with $100 scholarships, as the result of an award made for the first time this year by Sears, Roebuck and Company. The company has expressed an intention to make these permanent annual scholarships, the school of agriculture has announced.

Applications for scholarships accepted represented 17 counties in Oregon and were awarded to farm boys with outstanding high school records who might otherwise have been unable to enter college.

The Sears, Roebuck company stated that the scholarships were to be awarded by Oregon State college to worthy Oregon farm boys of good character and scholastic attainment, who have demonstrated leadership ability through participation in 4-H club, Future Farmer, or other agricultural or community activities.

Miss Helen Doherty will assist at Myrtle's Beauty salon during Rodeo week.

Old West Hospitality Emphasized GOOD MEALS

★ As Rodeo time nears, thoughts reflect the appetizing aroma of the steaming coffee pot wafted into the cool morning breezes . . . the highest emblem of old western hospitality whose first concern was food for the stranger. We like to recall those days when life in the open made GOOD FOOD truly appreciated, and we do so as we invite you to come here for Rodeo supplies that will make your meals reflect the "Good Old Days."
