OSC Students Get $47,991 NYA Funds

Federal aid under the National Youth administration benefitted a total of 552 different Oregon State college students who earned $47,881.66, last year, according to the annual report just compiled by Registrar E. B. Lemon, chairman of the college NYA committee. Average earning for all students was $83.13, 146 received less than $50 each and only 32 received over $150 for the year.

In accordance with the college policy of considering the NYA as an educational department, these students performed a wide variety of work in the 136,592 hours they recorded. About a fourth of the total hours for the year were devoted to specially designed projects and miscellaneous assignments which included scores of jobs in laboratories constructing equipment, tabulating data, testing, assisting with research and conducting surveys. Other work included clerical, stenographic, instructional assistance, repairs, construction and drafting.

NYA students maintained considerably higher grades than the college average, the report shows. About 80 per cent of the 552 were underclassmen.
