L. W. Perkins and daughter Mable of Valley Forge near Spokane, parents and sister of Mrs. L. R. Rambo, were visitors here Sunday at the Rambo home. Mr. Rambo was connected with the mechanical department of the Spokesman-Review for 46 years, twenty of which he was foreman on the Chronicle, published in the same plant, and this office acknowledges a pleasant call from him. He has now retired from the printing business.

Ernest Heliker, who with Mrs. Heliker and other people of the Morgan section, passed through Heppner Saturday on their way to Pomona grange meeting at Lena, stopped in Heppner long enough to purchase some "no hunting" signs. Mr. Heliker said people of his section are tired of having livestock killed in bird season each year.

Lloyd Moore and Charles Wilcox of Hermiston, connected with Oasis theater and Mor-Tone Sound service, were in Heppner Monday evening on their return from a hunting trip, empty-handed.

Mrs. D. W. Glasgow, daughter and son arrived this week from Spokane to join Mr. Glasgow in making the family home here. Mr. Glasgow is manager of Morrow County Grain Growers.

Henry Smouse was in the city Monday from the farm in the Ione section. He reported growing conditions especially favorable for the season.

RHEA CREEK NEWS

A bridal shower was given for Mrs. Milo Huston at the home of Mrs. Walter Becket on Wednesday. Many useful gifts were received by the honoree.

Mr. and Mrs. George Penketh of Portland were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Bergstrom. On their return to the city they were accompanied by Mrs. Bergstrom.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson are visiting Mr. Anderson's sister, Mrs. Martin Johnson, in Columbia, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyndal Robison who are leaving soon for their new home near Klamath Falls will be given a farewell party at the Rhea Creek grange hall on Saturday evening, October 12. All friends are invited. Sandwiches and cake are to be served.

Herman Parker from Seneca, accompanied by Tommy Shanks, was a dinner guest at the Clive Huston home on Friday, en route to Portland.

Rhea Creek grange members attended Pomona at Lena Saturday, where they put on the fifth degree work.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hynd of Cecil passed through the city last week end on their way to Top to visit at the home of Mrs. Hynd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bleakman, who moved there recently from Heppner.

Bill Perry, Pendleton attorney, and son Billy were visitors in the city the end of the week.

Better Outlook Reported by OSC On Farm Markets

Moderately improved farm market prospects in general are indicated from information just published by the Oregon agricultural extension service, at least for crops showing no material increase in available supplies for market during the 1940-41 season.

The improvement is expected to be associated with the somewhat higher level of consumer purchasing power expected in the current marketing season compared with 1939-40. Domestic demand is expected to improve more than enough to offset poorer foreign demand prospects owing to the war.

The report deals more specifically with market prospects for apples, potatoes, turkeys, and walnuts, all important commercial products of Oregon which are marketed largely during the fall and winter months. The full report containing this market prospects information is available from county agents or direct from the college. It is intended to assist producers and marketing men in analyzing the situation and market prospects in relation to marketing the products they have produced for sale.

Another section of the extension service report deals with farm income prospects for Oregon in 1940 and indicates a probable gain of around 5 per cent over 1939 owing to a higher general average farm price level in 1940 and probably a slight increase in gross volume of production.

British Brave in Face of Bombs; No Food Scarcity, Writes Luckman Relative

Reassurance is given Walter and Charlie Luckman by a nephew living near Manchester, England, that the country is far from panic, its people eating regularly and industry generally running smoothly despite constant threat of German air raids. A letter recently received and dated Manchester, August 18, says in part:

"Actually things are going on here very steadily and smoothly. There is ample food... There are restrictions on the amounts of sugar pur-

Flying Squad Aids Game Protection

A special flying squad of law enforcement officers in plain clothes and an airplanes to spot violators are being used to augment the regular force of state police during the present hunting season.

The men who have been selected from the field personnel of the Oregon State Game commission are working directly under Frank B. Wire, state game supervisor, and will be shifted throughout the state, perhaps working one week in one section and the next in another.

The airplane will carry an officer in addition to the pilot who will be equipped with a two-way radio set. If poachers shooting pheasants are spotted, the officer in the plane will communicate location of such violators in automobiles on the road.

"The aim of the game commission is to prevent law violations," said Mr. Wire. "More effective patrol work can be done, we believe, thru officers working in the same type of clothes worn by the hunters. Many of the regular state officers are working in plain clothes this year, too."

Transfer of the local Gamble store from Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hagerman to Conley and Lanham of Havre, Mont., has been announced. Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman plan to go to Nebraska for a visit with relatives before deciding upon a future location.

tries have declined sharply during recent months compared with the same period last year. The decline is attributed partly to interference with international trade by the war and partly to increased domestic production to meet domestic needs.

chased weekly, tea, bacon, meat and butter, but that is the only rationing there is and the amounts are quite reasonable... The rations allowed per person per week are sugar 1/2 lb., tea 2 oz., butter 8 oz., meat 1-10 d. per week. There is no rationing of bread, fish, fruit and other commodities...

"Transport service runs regularly but the services are less frequent than before the war, and they stop running about 11 p. m. Fares have risen as have prices of commodities, but unlike the last war, maximum prices are controlled and fixed by the government..."

"Hitler has paid pretty heavily for his temerity," referring to the air raids, "and if he attempts invasion I've a feeling he'll get a bit more than he bargains for. Unfortunately he's not likely to be the sufferer. It will be the poor dupes he flings into the business..."

"We have had several air-raid warnings in our district and odd planes have been over but no big attack has been made here as yet..."

"When the air-raid sirens go—a mournful wailing note which rises and falls—we toddle off to shelter. Those who have the Anderson steel shelters are pretty safe from all except a direct hit—and in that case it wouldn't be much use bothering—whilst those without steel shelters have usually made the space under the stairs habitable as a shelter. So far it's not been too bad getting out of bed in the early hours of the morning to seek shelter but it won't be quite so chirpy when the cold weather comes."

The letter refers to the "dig for victory" campaign, evidencing that all available soil is being tilled to the limit to provide more food. The people are all engaged in war work in addition to carrying on regular activity, showing that Britain is carrying on nobly. The writer said no one in Britain expects the United States to enter the war, believing that assistance with food and materials of war would be more help than the sending of troops, the subsistence for which would detract from the flow of available supplies from this country.
