

Dairymen Slate Big Session at Grants Pass

Dairymen of Oregon are planning on holding one of their most important state meetings in Grants Pass early in the year, when the forty-eighth annual convention of the Oregon Dairymen's association will be held January 8, 9, and 10.

As is becoming the rule quite generally among state-wide agricultural groups, the first day of the convention will be devoted to committee meetings, with the main public business and educational addresses of the session scheduled for the second and third days, according to an advance announcement just issued by Roger Morse, extension dairyman at Oregon State college and secretary of the association.

A new feature of the convention this year will be meetings of three purebred cattle clubs in connection with the convention. The Oregon sections of the Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein breed associations will hold meetings on the afternoon of Thursday, January 9.

Two principal committees which will hold sessions on the opening day will deal with the subject of sales promotion and disease control. Unusual interest is shown in the latter subject this year because of the thorough discussions scheduled to be had on the newer developments in Bang's disease control, including calf vaccination.

The annual banquet will be held the evening of January 9. Details of the educational program will be announced soon, says Morse.

counties will have the sympathy if not the outright support of most of the out-state counties in what they regard as an attempted grab on the part of the state's smallest, if most populous county.

A long-range building program for the several state institutions outlined by the Board of Control calls for the expenditure of approximately $1,600,000 during the next six years. Major item in the program for the next biennium is the 300-bed treatment hospital for the state hospital to cost an estimated $325,000. For the 1943-45 biennium the board has included an auditorium and commissary at the state hospital to cost $145,000, replacement of the frame buildings at the Cottage farm at a cost of $200,000, and new school buildings at the institutions for blind and deaf children, each to cost $125,000. During the 1945-47 biennium it is proposed to construct a new ward building at the state hospital at a cost of $240,000, remodel the administration building at the state hospital at a cost of $50,000, replace the frame administration building at the school for the blind at a cost of $70,000, a kitchen and dining room at the school for the blind to cost $65,000, construct a nurses' home at the Pendleton hospital at a cost of $40,000, a combined recreation hall and school building at the girls' school to cost $70,000, and remodel one of the cell blocks at the state prison at a cost of $50,000.

A proposal by Budget Director Eccles that the state of Oregon discontinue cooperation with the WPA in order to encourage increased employment by private industry was turned down by the Board of Control. The board however, did agree that henceforth all state cooperation with this federal agency would be confined to what it termed "pick and shovel" jobs, that is projects requiring a minimum of skilled labor.

Dates for the 1941 state fair were announced by the state board of agriculture Saturday as September 1 to 7, inclusive.
