Frank Keller Takes Bride in Michigan

In a 6 o'clock double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. H. Bultema, Miss Neillie Kline of Muskegon, Michigan, became the bride of Frank L. Keller of Chicago, formerly of Oregon, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Keller of Ione.

The service took place Saturday, Dec. 14, at the home of the bride's father, Henry Kline, 1428 John St., Muskegon.

Preceding the ceremony, Adrian Vanderstilt sang, "Because," and the hymn, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us," accompanied at the piano by the bride's niece, Eunice Kooi. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Kooi, the bridal party proceeded to the living room which was banked with palms.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white satin and lace gown and a fingertip veil. She wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her bridesmaid was Neely Turbiville, of Charlotte, N. C. The best man was Ed Hall of George Washington, New Jersey, and Henry Kline, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

A supper was served following the ceremony to the bridal party and the many relatives at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller are at home at the Wil-Mar hotel, 11 West Division St., Chicago, Ill. The bridegroom is taking his premedical course in Northwestern university, Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward M. Keller and their two children, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Keller, all of Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, drove over to attend the wedding of their brother and son.

Wheat Outlook Dull, Reports Grain Chief

The wheat picture as a whole is very complicated and promises no bright outlook until the war is over, and even then all surplus producing countries will want to dispose of their accumulated surpluses, C. W. Wright, chief or the state department of agriculture grain inspection division with headquarters in Portland, told the state board of agriculture at its recent meeting.

Large surpluses, virtual cessation of the flow of flour to China, slowing up of movement of flour to the East coast due to lack of space, smaller volume to California and no broad outlet for flour are all factors in the present situation. The only export flour business going on is with the Philippines and that is small.

But an optimistic note is in his assertion that Shanghai could provide a good market for local wheat, and may do so yet. It is estimated that Shanghai will import a total of 20 full cargoes of wheat during the next six months, and exporters naturally would like to get a share of this business were it possible.

"As the situation now exists, there is a sizeable surplus in the Pacific Northwest, with markets drawing very narrow. Millers do not provide much of an outlet, exporters none at all. It is estimated that at the end of this season, there will be a surplus of 35 million bushels in the Pacific Northwest, with an excellent crop coming up. This will strain storage facilities beyond capacity. With so much wheat now stored in bulk, the problem would become more acute than in other years."

He pointed out also that current rumors persist in saying that relief may be provided Spain and that credits may be arranged for disposing of wheat to Spain under the American Red Cross. This, if it materializes, has promise of disposing of some of the surplus wheat.

Brooding Guide Out; Knowlton Passes

A practical guide on chick brooding and rearing by Frank L. Knowlton

D. Bauman and J. V. Crawford were appointed to determine costs. Use of the gym roof was expected to be sought again where the name of the city in large letters and direction and distance to nearest landing field would be indicated.

Placing of the air marker and provision of emergency landing strips along major highways at points in the county were discussed by the club as being a desirable part of the federal civil aeronautics program stressed as a part of the national defense program.

Frank W. Turner told of the landing fields desired, strips 40 feet wide and 1000 feet long that would be levelled off and properly marked by farm owners living adjacent to main highways which could be used by planes for landing in case of emergency, as well as to assist in developing local interest in flying. Such fields are in addition to main airports and have no bearing on the airport project for Heppner being promoted by the chamber of commerce.

The club voted to participate in the national membership contest of Lions International being waged through the month of January in honor of Melvin T. Jones, founder and secretary of the service organization.

ton, poultry husbandman at Oregon State college, has just been issued as Extension Bulletin No. 549. The bulletin contains suggestions on brooder houses, artificial yards, various kinds of brooders and their capacities, feeding equipment and methods, rations and schedules for feeding and general brooder management.

"The purchase of day-old sexed pullets is a practice now generally followed on Oregon commercial egg farms where the Leghorn breed predominates," says the author in the bulletin. "If the chicks are properly handled while being sexed, there is no injury to them as chicks, or later as laying pullets.

"The mortality of sexed pullets during the brooding period is generally lower than for unsexed chicks of the same quality principally because of two factors: first, day-old pullets have twice as much room under a brooder because only half as many straight-run chicks are put under one brooder; second, the unsexed pullets cost twice as much as unsexed chicks and naturally receive more attention and care."

About a week following the publication of his extension bulletin on chick brooding and rearing, Frank L. Knowlton died in the Portland Veterans' hospital at the age of 46.

Knowlton was born and reared in Washington, D. C., where his father was for many years a staff member of the U. S. Geologic survey. He joined the O. S. C. staff in 1920.
