Red Cross Sewing Organized at Ione

By MRS. ELMER GRIFFITH

At the request of Mrs. Charles Cox of Heppner, Morrow county chairman of the Red Cross, a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Smith Monday afternoon, attended by representatives of the various womens organizations. Tentative plans were laid for assisting with sewing and knitting and another meeting will be held in the near future at the call of the chairman. Ladies present were Mrs. E. R. Lundell of the P. G. C., Mrs. Hugh Smith of the Topic club, Mrs. W. J. Blake of the Union Aid society, Mrs. Omar Rietmann of the Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Fred Mankin of the O. E. S. Social club, and Mrs. E. C. Heliker of the H. E. C. of Willows grange.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Britten of Tugh Valley spent Thursday and Friday here visiting Mrs. Britten's mother, Mrs. Alice Wiles.

Mrs. Cole Smith of The Dalles was a recent visitor here at the home of Mrs. Frank Engelman and other friends.

Rev. R. A. Berger of Hermiston held services here Sunday.

Clel Rea was called to Heppner Tuesday by news of the death of his mother, Mrs. Albert Rea.

Mrs. E. E. Hummel and little son are visiting Mrs. Hummel's parents in La Grande.

It is reliably reported that a troop of negro girls will play Fred Hoskin's All Star team here on Feb. 3.

Rev. W. W. Head of Cathlamet, Wash., has presented the Ione library with a copy of Adolph Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf."

Miss Mildred Lundell is confined to her bed, suffering a recurrence of influenza.

Honoring her birthday, Mrs. Frank Engelman was surprised with a handkerchief shower Monday. Those attending were Mesdames Henry Clark, J. H. Bryson, Alfred Swales, C. W. Swanson, Frank Lundell, Della Corson and Ida Grabil.

John Eubanks wrecked his freight truck Monday while returning from Portland. He says he fell asleep and drove into a bank. In some manner his leg was caught and he hung until a passer-by extricated him.

Guy Farrens of Oakland, Cal., arrived Tuesday to visit his mother, Mrs. Minnie Farrens and his sister, Mrs. Martin Bauernfeind of Morgan.

Elmer Griffith returned Tuesday from Portland where he has been attending to business matters.

Miss Helen Lindsay of E. O. C. E. at La Grande is spending a few days at home.

A petition is being circulated in the Morgan neighborhood to arrange a vote on the reorganization of the school district.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Long were business visitors in Pendleton Monday.

Mrs. Darrel Farrens of Hardman visited Friday with Mrs. Franklin Ely and Mrs. Elmer Griffith at Morgan. She has been staying in Heppner with her husband who has recovered sufficiently from his recent operation to leave the hospital on Saturday.

Mrs. Edward Buschke returned Saturday from Blakely where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ealy Peck.

Mrs. Fred Mankin has received word that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Misner have returned to their home at Thornton, Wash., from Michigan, and that Mr. Misner has recovered from his recent illness.

The social meeting of the Women's Topic club was held at the J. E. Swanson home Friday evening. Five tables of bridge were in play and prizes were won by Mrs. Werner Rietmann, Ted Blake, Mrs. Ted Blake and Clel Rea. Mrs. C. W. Swanson won the jack high prize. Others present were Mrs. E. R. Lundell, Mrs. Martin Cotter, Mr. and

Mrs. Louis Bergevin, Werner Rietmann, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luhdell, Mrs. Clel Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith, Bert Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Denney and Dorr Mason. Hostesses besides Mrs. Swanson were Mrs. Garland Swanson, Mrs. Dorr Mason and Mrs. Omar Rietmann, but Mrs. Rietmann was unable to attend because of illness. Krebs Brothers at Cecil have 800 lambs so far, and there are also lambs at the R. M. Akers, and Harry Munkers ranches. These, with the bright, sunny days and the songs of the meadowlarks make spring suddenly seem quite near.

The Legion auxiliary, at a meeting Saturday, decided to surrender the charter, as attendance has fallen off until it is not possible to continue. A. H. Nelson was honored with a birthday dinner party Monday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Smouse and Shirley, Miss Harriet Pointer, Miss Jean McIlhinny and Francis Nickerson.

"My little shop, too, is a part of NATIONAL DEFENSE!"

"I'm busy two shifts a day, making battery separators for tanks, trucks and army cars.
"When these orders dropped in on us we worked day and night to get ready to start.
"But ONE vitally essential service was already waiting for us—all ready to go to work—our old standby, POWER AND LIGHT!"

This is true wherever you put a pencil-point on the industrial map of the United States!

Interconnected transmission systems make power available everywhere for today's defense needs.

★ Electric power service is one of the FEW industries that was able to take care of sudden national defense demands in its regular stride. It needs no more than a telephone call to supply more service and more power to manufacturing plants, big or little, anywhere, any time!

But think back to 1918! There were no interconnected transmission systems covering the industrial map of America. Isolated systems couldn't transfer power from one to another, hundreds of miles away. They had no central sources of money and management and top-notch engineering skill. They had capacity to produce less than one-fourth as much power as America has available today.

The power system groups—the so-called "holding companies"—supplied the essential element of interconnection that makes power service in America so vastly more efficient than it was during the World War. They have given American industry and the American home the finest power service in the world.

And the American taxpayer need not take one dollar—let alone hundreds of millions—away from REAL AND URGENT defense needs, to finance amateur political experiments with the world's most efficient power service in this time of national crisis.
