Official Paper for Morrow County

Whose Resources?

OVERNMENT money has been spent freely the last several years -and is still being spent in large sums under the national defense program. And it would be denying a major human characteristic to not admit that people everywhere are interested in getting their share. The benefits of such expenditure should be distributed as widely as possible. for when pay day comes, as it most surely will, all will be expected to share equally in wiping out the debt.

In the face of the true situation, it is not unpatriotic for Morrow county to protect its interests.

The county court, justifiably, is asking more than the government has proffered for land in the north end, and will present argument to show that the county will have been damaged to a greater extent than the amount offered will pay for.

Justifiably, too, a concerted effort is being started to attempt to locate the proposed government munitions manufacturing plant in this county. In view of what neighboring counties have obtained, that is not asking too much when such a plant could be located here probably for less investment in site, and with the major factors of water and transportation just as well taken care of.

These things affect the resources of Morrow county, which, according to a governmental principle oft' repeated, is entitled to benefit from such god-given bounties as has been given it.

But there is another resource, that of the timber in the south end, for which everyone in Morrow county should be vigilant, and no stone left unturned to try to save for home industry. Large blocks of privately owned timber have been purchased which are going or will go to mills outside the county. And there is a strong tendency evident to supply these same mills with timber in the forest reserve located in Morrow county. The chamber of commerce has resolved in favor of this timber being cut only by mills located in Morrow county. If the federal government is assured that timber removed from the reserve is cut in accordance with the general public welfare, then, surely Morrow county should be permitted to benefit most from its removal, and thus be compensated to a degree for loss of taxable wealth. There is precedent for such action on the part of the forest service. And it has been stated as a part of the forest service's sustained yield logging policy that communities naturally tributary to timber removed shall be protected in their interest. No county in the United States ever came to the fore in time of national stress more than has this county, but we have the right to ask for just remuneration for our resources, and to ask that benefits from same, wherever possible, be kept at home.

WILLOWS GRANGE NEWS

By MARY LUNDELL

The motion pictures by the Pacific Power and Light company, during the lecture hour last Saturday evening were enjoyed by all. The films consisted of two comic strips and an educational reel. The important holdings and plants operated by the company were made from the air, and from the interior of buildings and other viewpoints.

Other features of the program were singing America the Beautiful by the group; article, Early History of Fruit Growing in Oregon, by Jack Bailey; vocal solo, "Good Old U. S. A.," guitar accompaniment, by Donald Heliker, then the pictures.
