Music Program at Lexington Best Ever

The finest thing in the way of a musical production to be given at Lexington was given Thursday evening under the direction of Mrs. Juanita Carmichael. The program was in the form of a revue with music and folk dances from the first grades through high school. Every part was perfectly drilled and produced in a most pleasing manner. Each party's part felt a personal responsibility without the aid of assistant teachers. The pleasing manner in which the program was rendered was evidenced by the large crowd present, there hardly remaining standing room when everyone assembled.

The people of Lexington feel fortunate in having a teacher with ability such as Mrs. Carmichael possesses. Acknowledgements for assistance are extended to Elsie Beach, Vera Hapske, Betty Lawrence, Gene Majeske, Don Campbell, Eldon Padberg, Edwina Breshears.

Mrs. Turner Presents Pupils in Recital

Mrs. J. O. Turner presented her piano pupils in recital at her home Saturday evening. Mrs. Irene Wilson was guest artist, playing violin numbers and Mrs. Raymond Ferguson, Mrs. Sam J. Turner and Mrs. Leonard Schwarz assisted in serving the large number attending.

Pupils presented included Jean Turner, Marylou Ferguson, Rachel Cox, Frances and Shirley Wilkinson, Colleen Miller, Wilma Dobyns, Mildred Carlson. Duet and solo numbers featured the program, with a creditable showing made by all the pupils.

Judge Bert Johnson took suddenly ill Monday morning and was taken back to his home in Ione shortly after arriving on the job at the courthouse that morning. He was back on the job yesterday for a short time, but was not yet feeling up to snuff. A swelling and inflammation about his left ear gave suspicion of an insect bite, he believed.

Frank C. Alfred, on leave of absence from the office of district attorney to serve his country, has been raised to the office of first lieutenant, according to word received by friends here this week, and has moved into the headquarters office at Camp Murray, Wash.

Veryl Crowell Services In Capital Distinctive

Washington, D. C. — (Special) — Memorial services for Mrs. Arzula Crowell, known to her friends as Veryl Crowell, were held in Washington, April 17, at the Third Christian church. The services were attended by a large number of her associates in the Civil Service commission and in the home in which she lived. The services were impressive and the minister stated that they were the first of the kind at which he had ever officiated in as much as the friends had come together for music, prayer, and a memorial talk.

Several of those in attendance were young people who had given their blood for transfusions during Mrs. Crowell's long illness. There were in attendance also, several students who had been instructed in secretarial work by Mrs. Crowell and who felt they owed their skill and their rapid advancement to her excellent training. Mrs. Crowell formerly was a teacher at Baker Business college.

Mrs. Crowell had been in Washington less than a year. She had a heart illness which kept her in the hospital for many weeks. She was exceedingly courageous and was hopeful of recovery until the end. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crowell of Morgan.

Forest Permittes Meet With Officials

A large number of range users in the Umatilla and Whitman national forests met at the Elks club here last Saturday afternoon to hear officials of the two forests explain matters of policy. Representing the Whitman forest were Supervisor C. D. Simpson, and H. A. Harrison, both of Baker. Supervisor Carl Ewing and John Clouston from the Pendleton office represented the Umatilla district.

Emphasis upon conservation thru work of the AAA and SCS was told by Mr. Clouston, and Supervisor Ewing stressed that 20 percent of the fees paid in each district were returned to that district for development work. To meet shortage of feed conditions on driveways, three possible solutions were offered: Es-establishment of fields accessible to stock being driven to summer range; establishment of feeding corrals at strategic points, or trucking all sheep to range.

The matter of early entry of livestock into the forest region, due to the unusually advanced season, was left in the hands of local rangers to determine according to forage conditions in each district.

In meeting the wildlife competition problem, livestock men were advised to take more active interest in public relations organizations such as the National Wildlife federation, that their cause may have a just hearing at all times.

Supervisor Ewing explained that the recent grazing survey made in the local forest was not to determine the range carrying capacity for livestock, but merely to check growing conditions to determine effects of drouth and erosion on vegetation.

Feeders' Day at Union Scheduled May 10

The annual livestock feeders' day at the Eastern Oregon Livestock Experiment station will be held May 10.

The feeders' day at the Union station is an important event for many livestock operators, according to C. D. Conrad, county agent, and it gives them an opportunity of getting the latest available information on the feeding of beef cattle and sheep.

Important to the operators in Morrow county are the experiments conducted the past few years on the feeding of wheat to baby beeves. The steers and heifers have been fed this year on different combinations of wheat, and wheat and other grain mixtures and will be finished for for market on May 10.

The program begins about 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Oregon Bankers Lead In Agricultural Work

Oregon bankers lead those of all other states in the consecutive years they have made the honor roll of banker-farmer cooperation, according to a recent tabulation made by the American Bankers' association. The requirements for achieving the honor roll are that the banks participate in 4-H club work, cooperate with county agricultural agents, have representatives at agricultural meetings, expend money to further agricultural work, and designate key bankers in charge of banker-farmer cooperation in each county.

Oregon has made the honor roll for 12 consecutive years. Georgia has been on the honor roll for 11 years and North Dakota has 10 years to its credit. California and Washington have maintained their honor ratings for seven years each. Chairman of the agricultural committee of the Oregon Bankers' association is Alf Johnson, Forest Grove.
