Seed Growers Seek To Organize May 24

Organization of an "Oregon Seed Growers league" will be undertaken at a state-wide meeting called at Oregon State college Saturday, May 24. The state meeting is the outgrowth of two preliminary meetings of representative seed growers who are seeking to create an organization which will provide a voice for the Oregon seed industry such as the Eastern Oregon Wheat league, the Oregon Dairymen's association, and other such commodity groups provide for farmers engaged in those enterprises.

Anyone engaged or interested in the production of seed in the state is invited to attend the Corvallis meeting, according to Glenn Ritchey of Forest Grove, who has been serving as temporary chairman of an organization committee. Other members consist of A. T. Jernstedt, Carlton; J. H. Harland, Rickreall; Raymond Johnson, Eugene; Henry Zorn, Astoria, and Gerald Worwinger, Shedd. The purpose of the organization as outlined by the committee will be to promote the production of seeds for which Oregon is adapted and provide a medium for joint effort in handling production and harvesting problems, standardization of grades and brands, cooperation with other agencies, and support of state or national legislation that may be needed from time to time.

County Committees To Aid Nutrition

County committees to help further the cause of nutrition as an aid to national defense as well as the general welfare will be organized soon throughout the state as a result of action taken by the recently organized state nutrition committee for defense. This committee, headed by Ava B. Milam, dean of the school of home economics at Oregon State college, is part of the nationwide movement to work for better nutrition during the national emergency period.

A state subcommittee appointed to carry out the county organization work is made up of representatives of three organizations already active in this field. They are Mrs. Azalea Sager, state home demonstration leader, chairman; Mrs. Clara Thompson, state home economics leader for the Farm Security administration, and Mrs. Laura Wells, consultant in nutrition for the state board of health, Portland.

The committee will also undertake to expand the school lunch program throughout the state, which is now reaching only 19 percent of Oregon's schools, according to the report of a subcommittee headed by Mrs. Mabel Mack, extension nutritionist. Only 12 percent of the Oregon schools are making use of the surplus food products made available by the federal government.

NEWS OF HEPPNER

TROOP 61

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

By DARREL GLASGOW

Chaplin Swinburn of Texas was a guest at last Monday's meeting. He states that he would be glad to help any Scout advance. He promised to be at Scout camp and live in with stories (it's marvelous how he can tell them!), and especially with something he calls "The Mad Bear," which no good Scout should miss. Any Scout who wants may leave this Friday right after school for a two-night camp, and hunt for summer camp grounds. Find out from Scoutmaster Clark.

Be sure to be at meeting next Monday!
