(MAY 22ND)

*NOW ELECTRIC COOKING COSTS ONLY $2.25 A MONTH!

 This is the 3rd time in 5 years that PP&L has reduced electric rates.

 How can they do it so often?

 As people use more electricity the company's engineers find it easier to reduce the cost of bringing you a kilowatt-hour.

 Do these rate cuts amount to much?

 I understand that customers are saving $1,300,000 a year by rate cuts made since 1936.

 Will electricity get still cheaper?

 Yes, Pacific Power & Light Company plans to continue its long-range policy of increasing sales and efficiency, and will pass the savings on to customers in the form of lower electric rates . . . just as it has in the past.

Effective today, May 22, minimum bills for rural customers are cut from $1.50 to 95c a month. Minimum bills for city homes are cut from 15% to 25%. In addition, prices on all quantities of electricity—large or small—are substantially reduced.
