HEPPNER

By J. A. Anglin

There is a place, though small it be,
Just south of a grand river
And north of mountains green and grand—

All planned by God the giver.
This place called Heppner, Oregon
Lies in a peaceful valley—
Here people from surrounding towns
All love to meet and rally.
This little valley all around
Is crowned with fields of grain
Which sparkle in the golden sun
And prosper in the rain.

This Heppner has just seven letters
Within itself complete,
And it is just a Mecca
Where the weary seek retreat.
The people here are truly grand;
They all seem like a big brother—
The boys and girls and grown ups all,
The fathers and the mothers.
When you start down the street
some morn

You meet with hearty greeting
For everywhere its "hello Bill."
And you have a friendly meeting
When one gets sick and feels real blue,
Or is burdened down with grief
It seems someone is always near
To help you find relief.

We've lived among them quite a while
And find them lovely neighbors;
We truly wish them all God-speed
And strength for all their labors.
We miss the many who have gone
To realms of Great Beyond,
And wish to pause and pay respect
To the ones we loved so fond.

So do you wonder when we say
We'll miss you, "every one;"
But we truly wish that each may gain
A crown when life is done.

(Affectionately dedicated to the people of Heppner and Morrow county.)

Be it resolved that we bow in humble submission to the will of the Omnipotent, and extend to the bereaved family of the deceased our heartfelt sympathy. That we drape our Charter in mourning in memory of our departed brother; that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Chapter, a copy sent to the family, and one to the press for publication.
