IN CAR ACCIDENT

Slippery pavement from the rain of Saturday night and Sunday morning caused the car of Jack, Cecilia and Helen Healy to overturn Sunday morning a few miles west of Heppner junction as they were on their way to Portland. The occupants escaped injury, other than for a general shaking up, but the car was materially damaged. They called off the trip and returned to Heppner.

Mr. and Mrs. George (Bruiser) Thornton of Seattle called on old friends here Monday while in the city to look after graves of Mr. Thornton's parents. He is employed at the Boeing airplane factory in the Washington city. His brother "Peck" is now in California. The Thornton boys will be remembered by many residents, as they grew to manhood in this city.

4-H Members Get Marketing Lesson From Lamb Sales

Baker—The Danish system of judging livestock was used for the first time at a lamb show in Oregon here recently at the annual 4-H club fat lamb show sponsored by the O. S. C. extension service. The new method of judging combined with other features to make this year's fat lamb show an effective method of education in the fundamentals of livestock marketing, said P. T. Fortner, county agricultural agent.

More than 100 fat lambs were separated into several market grades by Harry Lindgren, extension animal husbandman. The Danish method of judging provides for the grading of animals into groups according to their value for the use intended. In the case of fat lambs usual grades are choice, good and medium with segregations made according to conformation, finish and weight. Outstanding lambs were selected from the choice group for special recognition as extra choice lambs.

The extension service officials believe that this method of judging livestock will gain in popularity and use and that this type of show has outstanding education value since the club members can observe how well their lambs meet present market demands.

At the end of the show a lamb sale was held at which the best 40 lambs were sold individually at auction, while the remainder were sold according to grade, affording club members a chance to observe the usual commercial practices. A second lot of lambs owned by Baker county 4-H club members will be sold three or four weeks after the first show, when they have reached proper market quality.

Livestock authorities compare the marketing of meat animals with the marketing of strawberries. They say that certain lambs are ready to sell at a certain time, just as some strawberries are ready to be picked. If green or over ripe berries are offered for sale the grower loses, and, similarly, if lambs are sold that are not ready for market the producer pays for the error.

H.D.A.'s Helping With Many Items Of Home Defense

Oregon's corps of home demonstration agents with other home economics extension workers are already playing a large part in the home defense program, reports Mrs. Azalea Sager, state leader of this division of extension work. In the 14 counties with home demonstration agents, four major projects are being conducted.

"One of the first lines of home defense is that every man, woman and child have a sound, healthy body," says Mrs. Sager. "Since one of the bases for healthy bodies is an adequate diet, the home demonstration agent, through the training of volunteer leaders and other means, is giving out the latest information on nutrition. Demonstrations of adequate diets at low costs are being conducted and families are being aided in budgeting both food purchasing and home produced food supplies."

Even after all of the discussion on nutrition in papers and magazines many homemakers are asking questions about the various terms commonly used, says Mrs. Sager. One woman said recently, "I am all confused—are vitamins in calories, or are calories in vitamins, or are they both the same?"

In a number of counties the women have felt the need within the family and community of a better understanding of a citizen's responsibility toward preserving American democracy. In these counties the some demonstration agents have organized discussion groups on such topics as "Keeping Our Balance in a World of Propaganda," and "The Meaning of Our American Way of Life." Patriotic program material has been prepared by the extension service in home economics and is available for use by organizations.

Another phase in home defense which the home demonstration agent is helping is in aiding rural families to utilize to the best advantage that which they already have in the way of home equipment and facilities. Simple home repairs, kitchen improvement, and clothing construction and tailoring are only a few of the items in this project.

"Although farm income is increasing, the cost of living is also rising," said Mrs. Sager, "hence the home demonstration agent is giving more attention to budgeting and accounting to help the homemaker in wise spending of the family income."

Market Quotas for Irish Spuds Proposed

Oregon potato growers are being asked to give their views on legislation pending in congress which would establish marketing quotas on potatoes, the state AAA office has announced. Meetings are being held in the principal potato-producing areas, and in other counties county AAA offices are contacting growers to acquaint them with provisions of the proposed legislation.

The measure was drafted at a conference of growers in Washington in June, and later revised in accordance with suggestions from growers in several states. The revised draft, introduced in the House by Congressman Bonner, would apply the same principle to potatoes now used with wheat, for growers of more than three acres.

The bill provides for proclamation of quotas by the secretary of agriculture not later than September 15 of each year, subject to approval by the growers at a referendum not later than September 30. If carried by a two-thirds majority, quotas would be in effect for the crop harvested in the succeeding calendar year.

That "stitch in time"

TELEPHONE MEN hold to the policy that it's never too much trouble to look for trouble. Usually they find it before it finds them—a broken insulator—a worn part—a hundred things that might interfere with your telephone service. They rarely do interfere because of this Bell System practice: look for trouble before it happens—don't let it happen.
