Company Gives 25 More Scholarships

Oregon State College—The second annual group of 25 scholarships to high school students to enroll in agriculture at Oregon State college has been awarded by Sears, Roebuck and company, according to an announcement by William A. Schoenfeld, dean and director of agriculture. The scholarships of $100 each are offered by the company to worthy Oregon farm boys of good character and scholastic attainment who have demonstrated leadership ability through participation in 4-H club, Future Farmer, or other agricultural or community activities.

Final selection of the winners is made by the school of agriculture itself on the basis of applications turned in. The 25 students awarded scholarships this year come from 19 different counties. The scholarship plan was started a year ago and proved so successful that the company has continued it on an annual basis as part of a nation-wide plan of encouraging education for rural leadership.
