Camp Fire Girls Enjoy Summer Camp Trip

By Betty Coxen

Saturday evening the eight Camp Fire Girls returned home from an eventful week at Camp Meriwether. During their stay there they learned new songs and games and had a last rest before starting to school.

Camp Meriwether is situated upon the beach near Cape Lookout. This state camp was founded in 1926 and for many summers has given many Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls many happy summers as the Boy Scouts give it to the Camp Fire Girls for the last summer session. It is made up of 480 acres of woods and beach. There were 90 to 100 girls with counsellors and directors. There was a large lodge with a large fireplace where they sat around and sang camp songs, or played games.

There was a large mess hall where two cooks cooked the best of food and all you could eat. The camp is divided into three units about an eighth of a mile apart, the Bunyan unit, Lookout unit and Struan unit.

The Boy Scouts have made trails to these and other places. Each unit was made up of six three-sided shelters with four bunks in them, and a counsellor's cabin, all arranged in a neat circle.

The Bunyan unit is named after Paul Bunyan, the Lookout unit is named so because of the lookout that overlooks the ocean, and the Struan unit after the Norwegian vessel that wrecked off the coast of camp in 1891 during a terrible storm in which no one survived.

The girls went horseback riding every day. There were twenty horses and they rode along near the surf and through a path in the woods.

They went for a surf dip twice and swam in the fresh water lake every day, where they had row boats, canoes and for safety a life saver to every five or six girls. There were hikes to the cape and to the marine gardens and along the beach. Fishing boats passed every day and from the units they could be seen clearly.

All this made a happy and eventful week for many girls.

Don Turner returned home Saturday evening from a week's vacation trip to Portland and the coast.

Mrs. Norbert Peavy is announcing the opening on September 15 of a nursery school for two mornings of the week and a kindergarten for two mornings. Mrs. Peavy says that the modern kindergarten does not attempt formal education, but plans its curriculum and technique to meet the needs of children from 4 to 5. During this period children learn to adapt themselves to the larger group, accustom themselves to guidance, acquire basic habits which will enable them to live socially and intellectually desirable lives.

The nursery school is for children from 2 to 4 during which they develop attitudes, ideas and habit patterns. By the correct type of materials the child makes important discoveries in muscular control, eye-hand coordination, experimentation, dramatic and creative experiences. Songs, rhythm and stories are included in the program.

Opening Plans Set at OSC as Jobs Take Men

Oregon State College—Prospects for a freshman class of nearly normal proportions are improving as large numbers of credentials are turned in, but the attractive employment opportunities for students in the technical schools will bring an inevitable drop in total enrollment this fall, believes E. B. Lemon, registrar.

Students in engineering, secretarial science, agriculture, forestry, and science are in such demand at high wages that a considerable number will be reluctant to leave these well paying jobs to return to college this fall, according to present information. The effect of abundant employment is also apparent in the credentials being filed, as more women than men have now been accepted for this fall's freshman class. Rigid standards for admission have resulted in 50 out-of-state applications being rejected.

Freshman week opens September 22, with old students scheduled to return September 27. To help solve the housing problem for girls, those planning to join sororities are to come back this year Wednesday evening, September 17, for a three-day rushing period, so that all dormitory space will be available for others at the start of Freshman week.

ANNOUNCING opening of Kindergarten and Nursery School on Sept. 15. Call Mrs. Peavy at 2362.
