San Francisco Mounted Posse and "Canine Police" Revue—to Show at Pacific International Livestock Exposition Portland, October 4 to 11

According to T. B. Wilcox, Jr., President of Pacific International Livestock Exposition, this year's program of entertainment will equal any held in the past from a standpoint of quality and variety.

A feature attraction—the San Francisco Mounted Posse. This posse—famous for its smart appearance and spectacular drill—is comprised of 21 men whose saddle outfits alone cost from $1000 to $1,500 apiece.

Another main event—the "Canine Police" Revue—presents Doberman Pinschers trained to the highest degree of efficiency in Police work—accomplishing amazing feats—such as hurdling a 9-foot wall without assistance—guarding any given object against theft, and many others.

An event of special interest to many will be the thrilling driving competition by 6-Horse Draft Teams.

In addition to these special feature numbers at each performance in the big arena, plenty of thrills can be expected from the Rodeo, under direction of that well-known veteran producer, Verne Elliott, and his associate Don Nesbit, assisted by Abe Lefton as announcer and with Homer Holcomb, clown of clowns, adding the comedy touch.

Entries in the Horse Show supply contrast with brilliant exhibitions of skilled horsemen and women and their mounts.

Exhibits at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition will include Beef and Dairy Cattle, Sheep and Goats, Hogs, Horses, Poultry, Pet Stock, Dogs, Land Products, and Industrial Exhibits. An outstanding exhibit will be one supplied by the United States War Department.
