MARTIN-TAYLOR RITES TOLD

A Bremerton, Wash., newspaper gives the following account of the recent wedding of Lester Taylor of even physical hardship by being too venturesome.

In order to help hunters inexperienced in the mountains to avoid such situations Forest roads in the Umatilla National Forest are closed to entry and use during such periods, under Regulation U-6.

If you are in camp in the mountains when a severe storm strikes, you are advised to break camp and move out while you can, whether it be day or night.

By leaving your camp clean and neat you will aid us and set a good example for other campers a few of whom heretofore have been quite thoughtless of the fellow who may wish to use that place next. "Burn what you can and bury the rest."

All hunters using Forest roads do so at their own risk.

CARL EWING,
Forest Supervisor.

At a quiet ceremony solemnized the evening of October 6 in Olympia, Miss Gwen Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wallace of Bremerton, became the bride of Lester Taylor of Heppner. The service was read by Rev. Van R. Hinkle in the presence of a few intimate friends. For her wedding the bride chose a blue velvet frock with white trim and matching accessories, and wore a gardenia corsage.

Mrs. J. Aylward and George L. Baxter attended the couple. A wedding dinner was served in the evening. Now home from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are residing at 185 Westwood, Bremerton. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Aylward, Lillian Peterson, Marvel Osborne and Earl Crisman.
