Homemaker Clubs
Hailed as Best Feminine Groups

Oregon extension workers in home economics organized 316 adult extension units throughout the state last year in addition to 84 extension study clubs and 11 recreational units, according to the annual report of Mrs. Azalea Sager, state home demonstration leader.

These clubs are the kind recently described by a woman columnist as the feminine organizations which in her opinion are doing the best group job in the defense of democracy.
Mrs. Walter Ferguson, who conducts a column for the Scripps-Howard papers throughout the country under the heading "One Womans' Opinion," replied in answer to a question that these home demonstration clubs, composed wholly of farm women, are carrying on a program based on common sense and actual community needs, aimed at the preservation and defense of the American home.

"They waste no time on abstractions. Theories which absorb so much of our club attention give way to hard facts and facts with which their membership is familiar," wrote Mrs.
Ferguson. "Their meetings are an exchange of practical ideas about practical subjects — subjects which women must master if they expect to function as good citizens. These include child training, sewing, nutrition, preparaton and preservation of foodstuffs, religious standards in the home, recreation, poverty and crime problems in their neighborhoods.

"Maybe because most of them do their own cooking, they seldom eat at meetings. . . . It seems to me that this group of farmers' wives and daughters is working wonders in the interests of the national economy."

The Oregon clubs organized last year had a combined membership of 8559 adults, Mrs. Sager's report shows.

Ben Buschkes Fete
55th Wedded Year

The 55th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Buschke, Morrow county pioneers, was observed Sunday, October 26, with a family reunion and dinner at the Rhea Creek grange hall. A lovely dinner was served to 38 members and relatives of the family. The tables were beautifully decorated, with lace table cloths and fall flowers.

Another special table was decorated for the birthday of little Jerry Buschke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Buschke, who was born on the day of his grandparents' 50th anniversary. Jerry had ten little guests at his table, all being his cousins. His birthday cake was baked by his grandmother, Mrs. Walter Beckett.

All members of the family were present except two daughters and one son. Those being Mrs. Lowell Twichell of Los Angeles, Mrs. W. R.
Moore of Portland and Bill Buschke of Burns, all of whom were ill and unable to attend. After the dinner, group singing was enjoyed. There were several special numbers sung by little Miss Norma Clair Brown of Portland, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buschke. Sally Lou Hyle, great-granddaughter, 21 months old, presented a guest book to her great-grandparents, which was signed by all present.

Friends called in the afternoon and helped celebrate the occasion.
Those present outside the immediate family were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Spicer of Astoria (Mrs. Spicer and Mrs. Buschke are sisters), Mr. Gus

Bartell of Walla Walla, brother of Mrs. Buschke, Mr. Claude Whitney of Portland, brother-in-law of Mr.
Buschke, also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartell of Walla Walla, nephew of Mrs. Buschke.

Stop! Look! Take Heed! Do you like good eats? Then come to the Christian Church, Fri., Nov. 7, 1941.
Cafeteria. Prices reasonable. Meals served from 5 to 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Thompson motored to Pullman the end of the week and took in the Oregon State-Washington State football game.

Mrs. R. M. Rice who visited relatives and friends here recently from her home at Vancouver, B. C., underwent an operation in a Portland hospital this week, according to word received here.
