Bombers Must Breathe

Today American-made bombers can fly at the unbelievable height of six miles. Here is the story of the small but all-important device that helps make stratosphere flying possible.

1. It started on Pike's Peak in 1918, where Army Air Corps engineers showed that an airplane engine could be made to run efficiently 2 1/4 miles above sea level!

2. This amazing feat was possible because a "turbocharger"—developed by the Army Air Corps and G-E engineers—pumps extra oxygen into the carburetors.

3. For 22 years these engineers have worked constantly to improve this vital device. As a result, U.S. bombers can fly above the reach of anti-aircraft fire.

4. Dr. S. A. Moss, G-E engineer who pioneered in this work, now at 69 has the thrill of watching the supercharger help carry our fliers higher than any others!

Democracy's Way of Financing Defense

WASHINGTON, D. C.—One hundred and sixty-five years of democracy have made America the richest, the freest, and the most secure country in all the world, and every patriotic man, woman and child in the nation wants to keep it that way. We are rich, we are free, and we are secure because ours is a government of the people, for the people, and by the people. The individual is supreme. He has always been so from the moment the nation was founded. To him belongs the credit for having created a new way of life—the American Way—and on him must devolve the responsibility for its perpetuation. But normal times do not always prevail uninterrupted either with individuals or with nations. From within or from without, unexpected events sometimes force us temporarily to change the entire pattern of life. And so it is now with America. Suddenly, from afar, an impudent and contemptuous challenge to our way of life breaks in on our democratic peace and contentment. America realizes at last that these terrible events hold a deadly threat to this hemisphere. Whether we like it or not, or whether we may ever be called on to use our defense, common sense and common caution demand that we build up a superlative defense with a minimum delay and a maximum of thoroughness. To that end the Secretary of the Treasury announced a campaign to place a large part of the defense debt directly with the public through the sale of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps.

"Come at once!..." read the wire...but I didn't have enough ready money for the ticket, so I phoned the FIRST NATIONAL BANK. Luckily the boys knew me, for I had financed my car there. The money was waiting for me and I was on my way!
