'Women in Defense' Move Brought Home

Taking inventory of the women of the United States because of acuteness of the defense need and because of the fact that the United States is technically at war even though no declaration of war has been officially made, was incentive for a meeting at La Grande Monday at which Lucy E. Rodgers, county school superintendent, was made sub-chairman for Morrow county. The meeting was addressed by Sadie Orr Dunbar, Oregon chairman recently appointed by Governor Sprague, and Mr. Hindman of Washington, D. C., from the office of production management.

Mr. Hindman stated that the average life of a British maritime vessel is 48 hours, and that the United States must have a vessel ready for launching every two hours. Mrs. Rodgers, who attended the meeting, reported.

She said Mr. Hindman's figures showed that the United States is to have at once an army of 3,000,000 men with an army of 7,000,000 men as the ultimate goal.

Further, it was reported, it takes ten production workers to equip one man on the military defense line, or 30,000,000 production workers to equip an army of 3,000,000 men. We have now but 2,850,000 workers in shops and factories, less than one tenth the number needed to equip an army of 3,000,000.

It takes two people working on farms to provide food for one man in the military. It will take, then, 36,000,000 production workers to equip and feed an army of 3,000,000 men.

As men are moved into the military ranks their places in production are ultimately going to be filled with women.

Oregon was the first state in the union to make a survey of its manpower and that is why this state was able to get so many of the contracts for defense production. Now Oregon proposes to be the first state in the union to make a survey of her woman power. This survey proposes to find out:

1. The name and location of every woman in the state over 18 years of age.
2. The kind of work each is now engaged in.
3. The supplementary skills each woman has.
4. The women who would be prepared to accept training for defense production work.

No one will in any way be offered a job by the survey. It is being made for the sole purpose of locating our women and finding out what they can do. The names will be filed in the office of the state employment bureau so that if and when the need arises it will be a simple and speedy matter to locate the workers needed.

Mrs. Rodgers asks that all women's organizations of the county be ready to assist in making this survey for Morrow county which will be launched soon after the beginning of the new year.

The O. S. C. team won eight straight matches against teams from a dozen western states. In the final match the O. S. C. girls argued the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that the United States government should regulate labor unions."

The men's debate team in the same tourney advanced to the semi-finals, as did the speakers in the extempore contest. The teams were coached by Paul X. Knoll.
