Mrs. Leroy Turner of Portland spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Seehafer.

Mrs. Frank Engelman is ill at her home here.

In the contest held last week by the school children, the side captained by Maxine Allen gathered the most waste paper, and must therefore be entertained by the losers. Four and one half tons of waste paper were shipped to Portland. The contest has closed, but waste paper is still being collected and will be sold at a later date.

Mrs. Roger Thomas, the county nurse, was a business visitor in Ione Tuesday.

The city of Ione has ordered a siren which will be placed on or near the city hall, to be used in case of a blackout. A switch will be installed at the marshal's house.

The H. E. C. held an all day meeting at Cecil last Friday at the home of Mrs. George Krebs. A bountiful pot luck dinner was served at noon. Sixteen members and six guests were present. Officers installed were Mrs. Clarence Harris, chairman; Mrs. John Eubanks, vice chairman; Mrs. Lewis Halvorsen, secretary; Mrs. J. P. O'Meara, treasurer.

A birthday party was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Steena Schlevoight, honoring the birthdays of Mrs. Schlevoight, who was 80 years old that day, her sister, Miss Tillie Johnson, Mrs. E. M. Baker, and Mrs. Jack Bailey, all of whom have birthdays in January. Fifteen ladies were present. Delicious cakes were baked by Mrs. Alvin Coleman and Mrs. P. C. Peterson. Mrs. E. C. Heliker and Mrs. Harry Yarnell were hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Gordon and little daughter, Janice, spent Sunday at Hermiston with Mrs. Gordon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers.

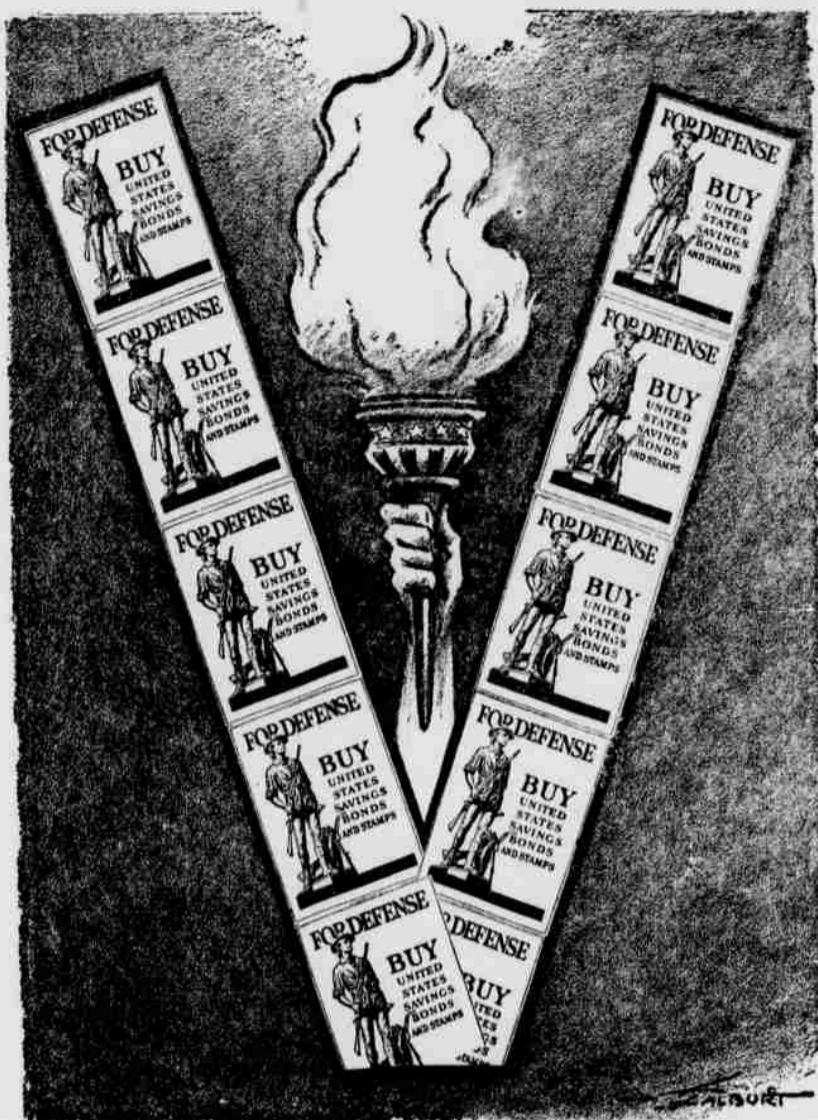

J. H. Bryson and Leslie Roundy are business visitors in Portland this week.

The P. N. G. club will meet on Friday of this week at the home of Mrs. Matthew Gordon.

Mattress Making To be Resumed

Oregon leads all states of the Pacific coast and northwest in the number of mattresses completed under the cotton mattress program carried on in many parts of the state this past year, according to word received by Lois A. Lutz, extension specialist in home management at Oregon State college.

She has also been informed that Oregon is among the states that will receive materials for carrying on the program to other counties as originally planned. The work was curtailed the latter part of the year because of inability to obtain materials.

A total of 5840 Oregon families have to date made 8724 mattresses and 1916 cotton comforters under the statewide program. This is estimated to represent a saving of $213,356 as compared with purchasing factory-made mattresses and comforters of similar grade.

The program in Oregon is under a three-way sponsorship, with the AAA handling orders, certifying applicants, and directing transportation of materials; the Surplus Marketing administration supplying the baled cotton, ticking, and percale, and the Oregon State college extension service furnishing the leader-

LEXINGTON NEWS

Clarence Buchanan Injured at Lexington

By MARGARET SCOTT

Mr. and Mrs. Callie Duncan arrived home this week from Eureka, Cal., where they visited their daughter and family. They reported that the weather was warm and that there were many flowers in bloom, including roses and violets.

Clarence Buchanan was painfully injured when the chair on which he was sitting in school fell over and his head hit the radiator. He received a cut on the head.

Two sleighing parties were enjoyed Saturday when the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grade students met on the hill back of Buchanan's and had a hot dog and marshmallow roast, and when the school students met on the hill above Edwards'. Also present at the former party were Ruth McMillan, Thelma Smethurst and Ellie Lininger.

Carol Jackson and Lorena Miller and Mrs. Marshall were confined to their home by illness the last week.

Out-of-town relatives in town or the funeral of George McMillan last Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. John Robert McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McMillan and son Danny, all of Grande Ronde; Mrs. Bill McMillan and Mrs. Lou Broadley of Corvallis; Mr. and Mrs. Bob McMillan and daughter Sandra of McMinnville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack McMillan, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Warner of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Winkle and family, friends, also of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hill, Kay, Gary and Jack of Madras.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Crump of Heppner visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hill and family of Madras returned to their home this week after spending several weeks at the S. G. McMillan home.

Guests at the S. G. McMillan home last Tuesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Don Pointer and Bob and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Scott.

Denny McMillan returned to school Monday after being absent for a week with an ear infection.

ship in teaching the skills involved. Scores of volunteer leaders throughout the state were trained by the extension workers and supervised by the county staff members. Extension workers estimate that the Oregon program is only about half completed, but will be resumed now that materials are assured as soon as dry weather makes the work possible.

CARD OF THANKS

Our sincere thanks and appreciation are extended to the neighbors and friends for their kindly assistance, expressions of sympathy and floral tribute at the time of our bereavement.

Oregon Seeds Now Vital Factor in Wartime Effort

Oregon seed growers are making an important contribution to the nation's wartime production program, 350 delegates from 26 counties were told by department of agriculture officials at the first annual convention of the Oregon Seed Growers League at Corvallis.

Especially important, they were told is the production of cover crop seeds—winter legumes and ryegrass—which are badly needed in the south to make up for the shortage of nitrate fertilizers. Southern farmers must have these seeds to "grow" nitrogen for their soils, so that farm families can produce more of their own foods and more of the commodities needed in the food-for-victory program, the convention was told by E. L. Deal of Washington, D. C., representing AAA's southern division.

The AAA is prepared to take all of the production from the 430,000 acres of cover crop seeds Oregon farmers reported in the recent farm defense plan canvass they were planting for 1942 harvest. Deal assured the growers that there was more chance of not having enough seed to supply needs of the south, than of having too much. The long-time goal in the south calls for cover crops on 13,000,000 acres, he said.

Growers can assure themselves of a continuing demand for Oregon cover crop seeds in the southern states by making a large supply of seed available to southern farmers this year through AAA's conservation materials program, Deal told the convention. The AAA can obtain maximum distribution and continue to develop the use of cover crops in new areas, he explained.

C. E. Carter another USDA representative from Washington D. C., told the growers that he knows from personal experience that in no other place in the United States can be found the favorable combination of soil, climate and farmers ready and able to produce seed such as Oregon is now turning out. He believes that organization and planning can insure a continuation of markets in the post-war period.
