Boy Scouts Revitalized For War Effort Here

Monday evening was the "kick-off" of the educational campaign for the Blue Mountain council of the Boy Scouts of America. The purpose of this campaign is two-fold: To bring before the public the ideals and standards of the Boy Scouts and their part in this national defense effort and to maintain a financial support for the council.

Fifteen men of Heppner are serving in this program. B. C. Pinckney is campaign chairman, and K. A. House is working with him. Dr. L. D. Tibbles, Dr. A. D. McMurdo and George Howard are serving on the executive committee. C. J. D. Bauman, C. D. Conrad, M. E. Cummins, Lee Howell, Dr. F. D. Miller, Mel Serle, Frank Turner, F. F. Wehmeyer, Thomas J. Wells and Frank Nickerson are carrying the story of scouting to the people of Heppner.

Previous to 1941 each town in the council had been assigned a quota to raise for the financial support of the council, but in January, 1941, the council executive board met and voted to discontinue the quota system. The opinion of the committee was that more people should be informed as to the real purpose and program of the Boy Scout movement. This plan is being followed in the local campaign.

An interesting fact brought out is that the amount of money it cost the United States and society because there was such a man as John Dillinger would support the Blue Mountain council for 400 years.

The council consists of 25,915 square miles, and includes the counties of Baker, Gilliam, Grant, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Wheeler and Morrow in Oregon, and Franklin, Columbia, Walla Walla and half of Benton county in Washington. There are 51 scout troops in 33 communities with 987 scouts in these troops; 3 explorer troops with 28 explorers, scouts 15 years and older; 7 cub packs with 124 cubs, boys 9, 10 and 11 years old, having a grand total of 61 scout units with 1140 boys in those units.

Horse Registration Response Good Here

We may not have an "Old Gray Mare" to rely on when our tires wear out, but there are still several horses in the county as is shown by the survey just completed by the county agent's office for the Western Remount area of the war department.

The farmers proved their willingness to cooperate with the war department as is shown by the fact that 355 questionnaires were returned. Of these, 229 farmers reported owning horses varying in numbers from one to more than a hundred head each.

County Agent Conrad says there is nothing to indicate that the war department will ask for any increased number of horses immediately but in case of an emergency they wish to know where the horses are.

The importance of the horse in modern mechanical warfare is shown by the report that Germany used 200,000 horses in the Polish campaign and nearly four times that number in the campaign in the low countries and in France. There were more horses being used by Germany this past summer than at any time during World War I.

The United States has something like 15 million horses and mules which under the right weather conditions and topography could easily be a deciding factor in the present war.
