Bees

We noticed a headline the other day: "Bees Exempt From Sugar Rationing." The article told of the importance of the little buzzers as pollinating agents as well as producers of honey—a notable substitute for sugar. But we weren't exactly satisfied.

When Burl Wattenburger, Morrow county's main apiarian came into the shop we couldn't help but ask, "Why the sugar for bees?"

"Well, I sometimes use it as food for them in the spring, when I make the mistake of robbing the hives of too much honey. You know I've learned quite a bit about bees and learn something new every day. I like it...I try and leave enough honey now to carry the bees over and don't depend on sugar...If you don't leave enough food to carry them over the bees just cut down their numbers according to the rations and you just don't have as many bees another year."

That would seem like basic biology, sure enough. Mr. Wattenburger had more to say about his bees and the honey situation, but we were left with the impression that maybe, after all, a lot of people could benefit from the philosophy of the bee—a source of inspiration to great authors.

Waste Paper

Boy Scouts report good response to the call for waste paper which they are collecting. However, they wish to remind those contributing that they are not conducting a garbage disposal system.

Among the collections of paper this week was found considerable refuse which they failed to be able to classify as paper. Let's keep our waste paper clean.

Today Heppner hopes are high of having a championship basketball team as the Mustangs enter their first battle at the Arlington tournament. The team has played a long and strenuous schedule in the season's play and have given a good account of themselves. They have given their best at all times. That they will repeat this effort at Arlington in an attempt to reach the state finals goes without saying. We hope they win, but we know that if they are beaten it will be by a mighty good team.

May the best team win.

Gets In Sombrero

In casting his sombrero into the eastern Oregon republican congressional ring this week, Marvin Klemme of Burns said:

If I am nominated and elected I will during my term of office represent the interests of all the people of eastern Oregon, to the very best of my ability, giving particular attention to support of military measures designed for the protection of the area of the Pacific, including a military highway between Alaska and Panama; support all measures directed toward a more efficient prosecution of the war, placing the interests of the U. S. A. first at all times; support all measures directed toward the protection of the agricultural and lumbering interests of the Pacific Northwest; support legislation encouraging the development of all mineral resources of eastern Oregon; support any reasonable old age pension program; oppose pensions to congressmen, or any other government official, unless paid for by the recipient in the form of an annuity; oppose excess profits to any group while our boys are fighting for $21 per month.

Farm-born in Missouri, Klemme later moved to Oklahoma and was reared on a combination grain and livestock farm. He enlisted in the U. S. Marines aged 20 and served three years. He came to Oregon in January, 1924, worked in Klamath Falls sawmills. Graduated by University of Washington and Yale forest school, he worked summers for U. S. Forest service. He left forest service in 1925 to become district grazer under newly formed division of grazing, with headquarters at Burns. Left this service in 1938 to make world tour, making survey of rural conditions and agricultural practices in thirty foreign countries. He was in Europe when war broke out. Told observations in book form on return. Now 41, he has charge of state school lands. This is his first venture into politics.

NEW BROADCAST SLATED

National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs has been invited, together with the Federated Music clubs, to sponsor a new coast-to-coast program, "Down Mexico Way," which will be given over the Red network of the National Broadcasting company, WEA, New York. Its premiere will be Saturday, February 28, at 7-7:30 p. m., Pacific war time, and will be broadcast every Saturday following until further notice, according to information received by Florence Bergstrom, local BPW president. Stations KGW, Portland, and KHQ, Spokane, will broadcast the program in this area. Miss Bergstrom also announced that Rose Leibbrand, present eastern Oregon chairman for BPW, has been asked to accept the nomination for first vice-president of the state federation. The election of this and other officers will be held at the annual convention to be held in Roseburg in May.

CLERK TO RATION SUGAR

Charles W. Barlow, county clerk, has received notice from Governor Sprague that his office will handle sugar rationing for Morrow county, with announcement that supplies for handling the rationing will arrive shortly.
