

Opposes Pierce

Charles H. Mack, Klamath county's active young assessor, has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for congress from the second Oregon district on a platform calling for congressional action for war production.

Aged 34, energetic and with a record of nearly eight years of public service already behind him, Mack promises a fighting campaign for the nomination, for which Congressman Walter Pierce, the incumbent, has also filed.

The new candidate was born and reared on a farm in Klamath county, received his schooling in that county and at Oregon State college where he graduated in banking and finance. He staged a successful political campaign in 1934, after several years of working on the farm and on the editorial staff of the Klamath News and Evening Herald. After four years as county assessor, he was reelected without opposition on either ticket. He has announced that he will not seek reelection in order to run for congress.

Mack served as first president of the Oregon State Junior chamber of commerce. In 1941 he was president of the state assessor's association; he is now state chairman of the National Association of Assessing officers and legislative representative for the state association.

Harlan McCurdy, Jr. Gets Recognition

Camp Roberts, Cal.—Private Harlan D. McCurdy, Jr., whose civilian home is in Heppner was one of only four soldiers selected from a unit of 250, Company A, 76th Infantry Training battalion, to remain at this largest of the nation's replacement training centers in order to attend a special school recently established to train men to become non-commissioned officers.

Private McCurdy, after thirteen weeks of intensive drill in the essentials of modern warfare, received his "diploma" this week. He is now well equipped with a knowledge of the rifle, the machine gun, and all other infantry weapons.

During his basic training period McCurdy received special citation by his superior officers for his excellence in quickly learning the intricacies of varied field tactics peculiar to the infantryman.

Pierce Declares

In making his declaration of candidacy for re-election to congress from the second district, Walter M. Pierce states:

I offer my candidacy to the people of the second district so they may have the opportunity to keep in Congress a representative in a position of influence and strength, during the days ahead when decisions will be vitally important to every citizen.

I enter the primaries of the Democratic party, standing on my voting record, prompt attention given official business, and my high-ranking position, won by long service, on the agriculture committee where I am chairman of the sub-committee which handles wheat and forest legislation. I feel sure of strength for the task to which I wholly dedicate myself, in a spirit of service and devotion. I shall, as always, owe allegiance solely to my conscience, my country, and my constituents. I know Oregon and understand our problems.

My record, during these past difficult years of depression and war threat, is well known, as my views have been set forth in numerous speeches, printed at my own expense, and distributed in order to keep my constituents fully informed.

My influence and my votes have been for full preparedness so that our country would not be left open to the enemy and lives risked because of lack of training and equipment. I have fought those who would yield and compromise, knowing full well that a weak, divided nation would be easy prey.

I shall continue to strive for national strength and unity, demanding "all-out," universal sacrifice in order to bring swift victory. There is but one subject before us now—winning the war rapidly and decisively.

My slogan is "Always voted preparedness. Let's win, backing our soldiers, forgetting profits, privileges, politics."
