FSA Cooperative Service Loans Coming

Farm Security Administration loan funds will be available shortly after July 1, 1942 for the establishing of cooperative service loans within Morrow county, according to Bruce E. Stewart, farm supervisor. Cooperative ownership is essential to the all-out production for Victory effort necessary in agriculture today, says Stewart.

Preliminary estimates given by farmers in this county showed a willingness and eagerness to meet the production goals set up last September by Mr. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, and after Pearl Harbor the production goals were increased again and every farmer met this request with the same willingness.

It is true that increased production brings difficult problems which must be met. Every day the labor problem, the rubber problem, and the machinery problem become worse. The one possible answer seems to be through cooperative enterprises of farm families. Many benefits may be derived from cooperative activities within a community in solving production problems.

Farmers may better realize the need of an all-out food production program since the new food administration calls for an over-all program of allocation of food supplies into three channels: (1) The armed forces; (2) Lend-lease shipments to allies; (3) Domestic consumption.

The American armed forces would have first call on all foods. After their needs are met the remainder will be allocated between lend-lease and domestic consumption. Our armed forces are now being allotted 40 percent of all pork and two-thirds of all lard handled by meat packers. Approximately 40 percent of the canned tomatoes and pea crops have been allotted to the army.

In order to obtain an all-out food production program this year, every farmer should stop long enough to take inventory of his production efforts to see if it would be possible to increase them through cooperative efforts with his neighbor by exchanging machinery, pooling labor, or by purchasing machinery or a herd sire on a cooperative basis.

Outline of 1943 Farm Goals Foreseen by 3A

Provisions of the 1943 AAA program will be directed at providing the "right amounts of the right crops" needed for the war effort, R. B. Taylor of Adams, chairman of the state AAA committee, reported on his return from a Chicago conference of 48 state AAA chairmen.

Continued emphasis will be placed on conservation methods of farming as the best way of achieving increased production, the chairman reported. Restrictions on surplus crops, such as wheat, will be retained and may be tightened, he predicted, and payments earned under the program will probably be connected more closely with a farm's contribution to the war effort.

Production goals for 1943 will depend on war trends, Taylor said. More oil-bearing crops, such as peanuts and soybeans, will be needed. A demand for heavier hogs for lard is foreseen. Goals for poultry and dairy products will be retained at this year's record levels, and increased marketings of beef cattle are still needed. The demand for cover crop seeds, of which Oregon is producing more than 400,000 acres this year, may be even greater next year, he reported.
