MODERN WOODS TOWN

FAST TAKING FORM

ities—hot and cold water, toilet, bath, and electricity for whatever electrical appliances that the occupants may have. Each house is connected to a sewage disposal system.

Two diesel motored generators, which can be used individually or together, supply juice for all camp purposes. An abundance of fine water—last test 99.7—is supplied from the camp's own pumps.

A pride of Mr. Coleman's is the men's shower house where all may go at the end of the day's work and have a hot or cold shower, as they may prefer. There are plans for school and recreational facilities—for while logs have before been taken out of Camp 5, henceforth it will be headquarters for all logging operations in the district.

To connect Camp 5 with the east end of the district, Kinzua Pine Mills has already constructed 11 miles of wide oiled macadam highway to the Heppner-Spray highway at a cost of $14,000 a mile. A further road has been projected through the French ranch into the Tupper vicinity, construction of which has been delayed by the war emergency. Other roads lead out from the camp in various directions, one to the mill at Kinzua lacking 6½ miles of completion. A heavy-duty macadam highway has been built to the west as far as the old Cohn mill.

Recent acquisition of three new large diesel motored trucks adds to the fleet of big diesels that will take logs from the woods to the lake. "Establishment of permanent logging headquarters here brings our operations closer to Heppner, and it is likely you will see a lot more of our people over your way," said Mr. Coleman, who expressed a desire to cooperate with Morrow county people.

In citing Kinzua's cooperation with the war effort, Mr. Coleman said they were working more than 90 percent under the payroll deduction plan for purchase of war bonds, and that they had a uniformed contingent of 58 men in the state guards, who drill and practice regularly on the army-standard rifle range provided by the company. The men of Kinzua take real pride in this uniformed organization, he said.

Mrs. Edward Green (nee Helen Curran) arrived this week from her home at Portland and took charge of Curran's Ready-to-Wear in the absence of her mother, Mrs. Agnes Curran, who spent a few days in Seattle on business.

LOCAL ITEMS . . .

Lawrence Beach, who with his mother, Mrs. Elsie M. Beach, and daughters Kathryn Lorraine and Dorothy Anne, was visiting here yesterday from Lexington, announced the arrival of a third daughter, Patricia Lee, at their home in Springfield, Utah, June 16. Mrs. Beach and the baby are at her mother's home in College Place, Wash. Mr. Beach and daughters arrived in the county Sunday, and will leave tomorrow for College Place to join Mrs. Beach and all will leave Sunday from Pendleton on the return home. Mr. Beach has been flying for the last year and is a member of a civilian air defense patrol unit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Richards departed Sunday for their home at Windsor, Ont., Canada, after visiting at the home of Mrs. Richards' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kenny. Mr. Richards is an instructor for the Royal Canadian Air force. They expected to visit Banff and Lake Louise on the return journey.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gilliam were Mrs. Gilliam's brother, Merrill Perry and wife and son, Darrell, of Baker. Mr. Perry recently enlisted in the naval construction service for overseas duty.

Announcement was made in the daily press of the birth of a son, Ronald M., to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Coblantz of 929 S. W. Salmon St., Portland on July 18. Mr. and Mrs. Coblantz were formerly of this city.

Boyd Redding was here last week end from Pendleton to be with Mrs. Redding who has remained in Heppner while Mr. Redding is completing his civil aeronautics training course in the Umatilla county city.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie M. Kenny of Pendleton visited with relatives and friends here last week end, and assisted in greeting Mr. Kenny's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Richards, good-bye.

Clyde Bellows, former meatcutter in the local Safeway store, now in the service informed local friends this week that he was leaving Seattle for "parts unknown."

Mrs. Ilene Laughlin was in Portland last week end to consult an oculist. She is secretary to the local price control and rationing board.

Mr. and Mrs. John Logan have received word that their son John, a private in the army, is stationed in the Hawaiian islands.

Dr. J. P. Stewart, Eye-Sight Specialist from Pendleton will be at the HEPPNER HOTEL on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5th.

C. J. D. Bauman was in Portland the end of the week to attend the state American Legion convention.

Mrs. Orville Smith and son Jimmy departed the end of the week for a visit at Naches and Seattle, Wash.

Harley Wright, who recently entered the army, writes home folks that he is stationed at Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lucas are spending a couple of days at Ritter springs

Stenographer Demand Ups Interest in Courses

University of Oregon, Eugene, July 30.—(Special)—The demand for stenographers in government service and defense industries has been responsible for an increased interest in classes in typing and shorthand at the University of Oregon, it was announced Thursday by Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration.

A total of 333 students took advantage of the university's offering of these courses during the past school year. Registration in the shorthand classes reached a cumulative total of 163, with 132 women and 31 men. Typing enrollment aggregated 170 students, 128 of whom were women and 42 were men.

The business administration school has received many more requests for students, especially women, to fill stenographic positions than it has been able to supply, Dean Morris said. Salaries are also on the increase for this type of work with expanding opportunities for lucrative employment, he added.

United Work Demand To Save Resources

Salem, July 30.—(Special)—Two of Oregon's great resources, her timberland and her wheatfields, both of them vitally important to winning the war, today stand in danger of destruction by fire, unless every citizen of Oregon joins wholeheartedly into the campaign to prevent forest fires and fires along roadsides, said Dean Johnson, state chairman of the Keep Oregon Green campaign.

"We have been stressing fire prevention in our forests all spring, with outstanding results so far," Chairman Johnson pointed out, "but now that our great acreages of wheat in eastern Oregon are ripening, they offer a great potential danger zone for fires. Now, more than ever, we must ask that every citizen become a fire warden. Flipping of cigarettes from cars into dry roadside grass could cause a devastating fire in wheatlands, and wheat today is needed for a United Nation victory.

"State highway officials, and many county officials, are to be commended for the program of cutting tall grass along the roadways," Johnson continued. "The boys and girls of Oregon have responded in splendid style by joining in the Green Guard, fire prevention campaign, and it is not too much for us to ask every adult to likewise do everything within his power to see that he does not cause a fire.

"Those of our citizens who take the complacent attitude that sabot-

Reserve Service Opportunities Told

A supply of pamphlets describing the opportunities for enlistment in the reserve officer programs of the army, navy and marine corps available to high school students who register at the University of Oregon this fall has been received by Edwin Dick, Heppner, county director of the University of Oregon alumni association for Morrow county.

The university expects to enlist every qualified student in one of these programs, Mr. Dick said. Students who take advantage of these opportunities will be able to prepare themselves for commissions as officers with the armed forces and at the same time complete their college education in any field they choose before being called to active duty.

The booklet describes the new army enlisted reserve program for freshmen and sophomores and the advanced training for upperclassmen. The navy offers three programs, designated V-1, V-5 and V-7. The army, navy and marines each offers commissions as both flight and ground officers with the air corps of each of these forces.

Students will not get into our forest and farm areas to start fires, had better look back to mid-June when a Jap submarine shelled our Oregon shores," Johnson emphasized. "Anything can happen here. It is better part of wisdom to be forewarned and forearmed."

Victory Gardeners Should Care for 'Toms'

Pruning, watering, and training of tomatoes is a matter victory gardeners should be concerned with at this time of the year, according to County Agent Conrad.

Pruning tomatoes depends on how close together the plants are. If they are fifteen to twenty-four inches apart it is probably best to leave just one stem. If the plants are farther apart one can leave the main stem and possibly two laterals, pinching off the smaller and leaving the larger ones.

Tomatoes may be supported by any type of support the gardener wishes to use. They are naturally a vine and some gardeners prefer to let them grow as such.

Local tomato growers have found that closer planting so that the tomatoes tend to shade each other helps to reduce the chance for blight.

It is not advisable to water tomatoes too heavily during the time they are throwing their first blossoms and beginning to fruit. Water is needed in abundance at the time when the fruit is enlarging and beginning to ripen. In watering tomato plants it is best to confine the water either in a ring around the plant or in a perl running the length of the row.

It is particularly important that as the fruit sets on the vines and begins to enlarge plants have sufficient amount of moisture so that fruit will not be affected by dry rot.
