Livestock Trucking Needs Law Protection

Livestock that is hauled by truck needs just as much supervision as that hauled by rail, yet more of the laws that have to do with sanitary livestock disease control relate only to livestock moved by railroads, points out Dr. W. H. Lytle, chief of the animal industry division of the state department of agriculture.

"Partial transportation control is not effective control," he declares, adding that it is quite important that laws be brought up to date so that all forms of transportation of livestock be under the same sanitary regulations.

Bulk of the livestock now moves by truck; moreover, 37 states have over 1,500 livestock auctions, yet in most states there is not adequate disease inspection and control laws surrounding these auctions.

Dr. Lytle, who is state veterinarian, suggests that livestock handled by truck should have a bill of lading and, if moved interstate, a certificate of health. Compliance with the laws for feed, rest and watering that have been required of the railroads should apply also to trucks when livestock is being moved from one state to another. He suggests that sales barns should not only be licensed but be required to post a $5,000 bond to assure compliance with sanitary laws.

If all the U. S. drivers of passenger autos had cut down their driving by 10 percent, they would have saved 160,000 years of round-the-clock travel time at a rate of 35 miles an hour.

Ev'rybody Ev'ry Pay Day

6,000,000 Women Enrolled in War Savings Payroll Plan.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Women At War Week, opening Nov. 22, during which women will seek to sell the greatest single week's volume of War Bonds and Stamps will serve to put the spotlight on the mighty contribution women generally are making toward financing the war.

Six million women are on War Savings payroll plans. Their monthly deductions total $70,000,000.

The customers of 300,000 newspaper boys who have sold more than $50,000,000 in War Bonds and Stamps are mostly women.

Volunteer saleswomen run nearly all the Bond booths in theatres from Maine to California. They also are sparking the War Bond sales in retail stores.

Ralph G. Engelsman, Associate Field Director of the payroll savings section of the War Savings Staff, readily admits that without the support of women the phenomenal record of payroll savings enrollments would not have been achieved. Payroll savings plans are now in operation in 148,000 businesses and factories. Employees of twenty-five thousand of these firms are converting at least 10 percent of gross payrolls into War Bonds every payday.

Associate Field Director Engelsman says that women have contributed directly and indirectly toward this record. When a man devoted 10 or more percent of his pay envelope to War bonds, the woman at home has had a powerful voice in the decision. Her planning, her economies and her cheerfulness play their part in the success of payroll savings.

The Treasury Department is counting upon this woman influence in its current campaign to "top that 10 percent by New Year's." By the first of the year the Treasury hopes to enroll at least 3,000,000 women workers in a payroll savings plan and 5,000,000 more men with total deductions for War Bonds over the 10 percent mark.

'This Is My Fight Too'

Proud of her investment in the American way of life and equally proud of the grime of war production on her face and arms, the young lady in this "Women At War Week" poster symbolizes two of the chief activities of women at war.

BOARDMAN NEWS

By Mrs. J. K. Walpole
Andrew LaMar, foreman of construction of the new concrete bridge over the Umatilla river announces the concrete is all poured but will have to set five or six weeks before it can be used. This bridge is on the new military highway connecting Boardman and Stanfield.

Mrs. Gus McLouth, her mother, Mrs. Elvira Ashton and son, Lelon McLouth left Monday for Santa, Ida. to see Allen McLouth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus McLouth who has joined the navy and will leave soon.

The city election resulted Tuesday as follows: mayor, Robert Harwood, 37 votes; councilmen, 4 years, Edward Barlow, 9; Margaret Klitz, 25; Gladys Forties, 14; S. C. Russell, 21; L. V. Root, 25; Crystal Barlow, 19; recorder-treasurer, Alta Russell, 35.

Harold Leslie Tyler returned to Portland Tuesday, where he has work in the shipyards. He visited the Roseland and Forbes families. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warner (Hazel Tyler) live in Portland where Warner works in the shipyards.

The farmers of the east side of the Boardman project gathered at the J. B. Morrison home Tuesday night and gave them a farewell party. The Morrisons leave soon for their new home near The Dalles.

Mrs. Glen Mallory (Echo Coats) arrived Tuesday from Tacoma to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coats and attend the funeral of her grandfather, J. F. Barlow.

Mrs. Jay Cox and daughter, Mrs. Irene Love of Seattle came Tuesday night to visit Mrs. Cox's mother, Mrs. Florence Barlow and attend the funeral of J. F. Barlow.

Boardman expects to lose its depot Nov. 14. The scarcity of operators makes this change necessary.

Relatives from out of town who attended the funeral of J. F. Barlow included: Mrs. Mary Sowers, Bert Barlow, William Schunk of Oregon City; Ray Barlow and family of Eugene; Truman Messinger and family of Lexington; Charles Barlow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Allstott, Heppner; Mrs. Jay Cox and Mrs. Irene Love, Seattle and Mrs. Glenn Mallory of Tacoma.

Albert Partlow and Ernest Tyler are digging and hauling potatoes and storing them at the Partlow ranch.

The seniors started on their annual sneak Thursday morning, going in Dale Russell's car. They expected to go to Portland and return Sunday. Elaine Fisher and Donald Ford were unable to go. Those who made the trip were Helen Ekker, Elizabeth Christianson, Erna Skoubo, Vernon Russell, Donald Potts and Robert Smith.

Howard Lechner and the F. F. A. boys spent Thursday cleaning the grounds around the Peck house where the community scrap was stored.

Mrs. George McCutcheon, Cpl. and Mrs. George McCutcheon and daughter Helen visited at the John Fisher home and left for home Wednesday night. Cpl. and Mrs. McCutcheon also visited relatives in Hermiston.
