

Our Men In Service

From somewhere up north, Lt. Leo Young has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young of Ione, about life in Uncle Sam's last great frontier. The letter follows: Dear Mother and Dad:

My letters have been quite few and far between lately. The last week I have been on a nice little jaunt—had a very interesting trip.

Last Thursday I left on a little mail boat about noon and arrived where some of our men are stationed about 4:30 next morning and paid them. Then about 10:30, with a guide and another man I started over a mountain and glacier, about a four-mile trip which took nearly four hours. It was plenty rugged. These glaciers are pretty tough going. Of course I managed to fall through the ice in a lake in the middle of the glacier, so all in all it was some trip. I was surely plenty tired when we finally hit camp. I had a pack of about 40 pounds most of the way. The next morning I caught a train for APO 942 (by the way, you addressed my last letter there) and got there about 1 p. m. I had a couple days work there on my sales commissary accounts and came back with some officers who had driven over in a car on a new road, so I came back yesterday with them. It's about a 10 hour drive and plenty rough. I was alone in the back of the car and I hit the top at least 10 times. Twice we completely switched ends on ice in the roads and once we ended up with the right front wheel about three feet off a 25-foot bank on the left side of the road—some fun!

The thing about it that still makes me mad is that I was authorized to fly back if they hadn't been there. I haven't been in a plane for 12 years. It would really have been a nice trip and I would likely have been able to stay over there longer. I'm in a warm room now—so no more worry about tents. It's much more convenient.

I saw Major Ken Dalton and Capt. Rafferty, both of Salem, over there. I think Floyd would probably know both of them. They are both getting along swell.

I haven't had a chance to do any hunting yet and I really don't think I will, for a while at least. Maybe later this winter.

All for now. Don't forget to write.

As ever,
Leo.

Recent letters received by Mrs. Frank Turner from former pupils are from Kenneth Peck, son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Peck of Lexington, and Woodrow Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tucker of Stanfield.

Peck graduated from Oregon State college last June and is completing his work at Columbia university. He was made an ensign on Dec. 2 and is to be assigned to west coast fleet duty. He is flying home for a brief furlough. He spoke of Lewis Gilliam and Ellwynne Lieuallen being in class at Columbia.

Young Tucker is in the army air force at Victorville, Calif., where he is specializing in engine aircraft. He is married and his wife is near the post.

Both young men seem to be pleased with their work and extend greetings to friends.

Another letter received by Mrs. Turner was from Cpl. Asa Shaw, who is stationed with the personnel section in Honolulu. Although he likes his work very much he states he will be glad to get back home. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shaw and grandson of Mrs. Casha Shaw.

Gerald C. Rood, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rood, Heppner, was graduated Nov. 20 at the navy's school for aviation machinist mates at the Navy Pier, Chicago, and received the rating of Aviation Machinist's Mate, third class.

He maintained an excellent record throughout the comprehensive 24-week course, which included the assembling, servicing and repairing of airplanes and airplane engines; splicing of aircraft wiring, manufacturing of terminals and other small parts; the principles and theory of flying; and seamanship work necessary to airplane ground work. He will now be assigned to specialized duty with the fleet or at a naval shore station.

Cpl. Wilmer Harrison, stationed at Camp Young, Indio, Calif., was in Heppner last week on furlough visiting his brother, Ray Harrison, who works at the Frank Wikinson ranch. Wilmer worked around Heppner several years before going to the service. His home is near Galax, Va.

Lt. (jg) Arthur Bergstrom paid his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Bergstrom surprise visit the past week-end, leaving Tuesday for San Francisco, to which point he has been transferred from Seward, Alaska. He was slated to take a new boat leaving the California port, destination unknown.

From Seymour Johnson Field, N. C. we learn that Pvt. Raymond F. Batty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Batty, Kimberly, Oregon, was recently promoted to the grade of corporal at that branch of the army air forces technical training command.

Pvt. Charles "Bud" Lundell, who left home Nov. 10 and is stationed with the coast guard defense at Ft. Worden, Wash., writes the home folks that he thinks it's fine. His commanding officer is a 20-year old youth, the youngest lieutenant in the service.

Lt. Ed Burchell is leaving tonight for Camp Edwards, Mass. to rejoin his unit, the amphibian engineers. He has seen service overseas and anticipates another jaunt shortly. Lt. Burchell was fortunate in being permitted to enjoy Thanksgiving with his wife and two sons.
