Farmers Setting High Goals but Need Labor New Machinery to Be Available in Oregon

Oregon farmers generally are planning their 1943 farm operations for an output that will equal or exceed most of the war production goals set for the state this year, R. B. Taylor, chairman of the state USDA war board, reported at the end of the first week of the farm sign-up drive now underway throughout the state.

The farm plans that have been turned in so far indicate that Oregon farmers intend to operate at top capacity to produce a maximum of essential crops. The extent to which these intentions are carried out will depend on the assistance given by city dwellers, women and school children during peak cultivating and harvesting seasons, Taylor believes.

Taylor said that all of the resources of the U. S. department of agriculture, co-ordinated by USDA war boards, will be used to assist farmers get whatever is needed to obtain peak production from every farm. Locating those farms needing assistance is one of the main purposes of the current farm canvass.

POTATO PRICE CEILINGS CLARIFIED, SAYS JACKMAN

Recent OPA regulations have clarified the potato price ceiling situation somewhat, says E. R. Jackman, extension crop specialist at Oregon State college.

The maximum price allowable on U. S. No. 1 Nettle Gems or Burbanks in January is $2.25 per hundred. This is the price f. o. b. country shipping point. In some instances dealers are paying this amount to farmers, although in other cases some deduction is made for local handling and loading. Specific premiums are allowed for special packs such as where all potatoes are above a certain size.

The daily oil-carrying capacity of the Texas-Illinois pipeline, now under construction, will equal the capacity of 1,430 average tank cars.

A GOOD SALESMAN WHO WORKS CHEAP

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Oregon will get more farm machinery for this year's food production job than the amounts allocated under the original state quotas, Albert S. Girod of Salem, chairman of the state USDA war board's farm machinery committee, reports on his return from Washington, D. C. Quotas for many items will be increased by 25 per cent, and some may be doubled, Girod said. The increase is the result of WPB allocation of more materials to manufacturers. Even with the increases, new farm machinery will not begin to meet all needs, Girod warned.

County rationing committees will be advised of how much additional machinery will be allocated to each county, and will use information now being gathered through the every-farmer canvass to determine the farms where the machines are most needed.

HAVING MEAT TROUBLES? HELP OFFERED VIA KOAC

How to manage the family food supply with less meat is being discussed three times a week over the state-owned radio station KOAC by three homemakers who have combined practical experience with a refresher course in home economics at O. S. C. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:45 a. m. one of the three is on the program.

Mrs. Fred Morgan on Monday discusses providing meat for guest dinners, Wednesday Mrs. E. G. Mason speaks on meat extenders, and on Friday Mrs. Curtis Mumford speaks on planning the meat supply for an entire week. These speakers are being heard every week now for an indefinite period.

Best Seed None Too Good for All Victory Gardens

Early selection of good seed is something that can be done now towards the success of a 1943 victory garden, reminds A. G. B. Bouquet, professor of vegetable crops at Oregon State college. Seed catalogs are now arriving, including those from Oregon firms which are prepared, in many cases, to provide locally adapted strains.

An experienced seedman is important to garden success just as a trained doctor or dentist to health says Professor Bouquet. A seed dealer who knows seed varieties is much more likely to contain one who handles seed merely as a side item, he says.

While some seed may appear at first glance to be rather expensive the actual cost of seed for a garden is so small in comparison to the value of the products that the best seed is the cheapest, no matter what it costs, adds Professor Bouquet. Seed that is purchased on a cost basis alone gives unfavorable results, either with poor germination, lack of uniformity, or both. Most successful commercial gardeners buy the best seed available regardless of the price, knowing full well that the cost of seed is a comparatively small item in any case.

Professor Bouquet recommends an early purchase of seed while full stocks are available, and also the purchase of only as much as is likely to be needed this year. Extension bulletin No. 552 lists desirable varieties and suggests the amount of seed necessary to plant varying areas of the different vegetables.

As one usually has some seed left over, it is wise, he says, to mark each packet of seed with the date it is purchased so that it will be possible in future to tell which seed is still safe to use. Ordinary vegetable seed may be used safely after it is a year or so old.

★ What You Buy With WAR BONDS ★

Tractors and motors will never wholly replace the Army Mule as a factor in the mobile units of our army. The Army Mule is a tradition and the "mule skinner" is a breed unto himself. Army Mules are used by the Field Artillery and the Cavalry in areas where the terrain is rough and tractors cannot operate.

Pack trains in mountainous sectors are often necessary and here the mule, slow but sure-footed, plays an important role. Our Army buys thousands of mules paying from $175 to $190 for each. The mule eats less, carries more, and some declare is smarter than the horse. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps helps pay for these Army Mules. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.
