

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3—War production board has relented sufficiently to permit a non-electrified farm to receive power under certain circumstances. A certificate must be obtained from the local county war board and, armed with this, a public utility company can construct a line to the farm and use up to 30 pounds of copper wire in the transmission—about 5000 feet. This material, however, must come from such stock as the company has on hand; no priority will be given to purchase new material.

The farmer is circumscribed. He must have a milking machine, water pump for livestock, brooder, incubator or food grinder which he has no other means of operating. If he has one or more of these facilities he must have at least "10 animal units" on the farm and the company can install 100 feet of wire for each unit. One animal unit is 75 hens, or 40 turkeys, or 10 beef cattle or three cows.

After the Truman committee blasted away at WPB for refusing farm equipment for 1943 Donald Nelson, of WPB, agreed that farmers could receive 30 percent of the amount that would be available. There was increased protest when farmers learned that tractors which they were denied, have been shipped to England while the food administrator is asking the American farmer to increase his production far beyond anything that has ever been attempted in this country.

Attention of congress has been called to the great harvest of last year, but because of insufficient help and equipment many tons of food have been lost. This is particularly true of soybeans, still in the fields, rotting. In the northwest such crops as strawberries were wasted for want of pickers and growers of cover crops for seed have been handicapped. WPB had planned to concentrate farm machinery production, not realizing that it is not one industry but 16 separate industries involving 1600 companies. Even on the 30 percent allowance the Truman committee says that many of the 1600 companies, being in the small business category, will be forced to fold up as they will not receive any orders. It is also not to be expected that manufacturers with no quotas for new machinery will produce repairs parts for machinery not made by them.

There was nothing said about it, but 186 refrigerator cars filled with butter, destined for Russia, arrived "somewhere in the northwest." The cars are estimated to have contained approximately six million pounds of butter which, according to department of agriculture estimates published four months ago, would have been sufficient to have kept the entire state of Oregon in butter for half a year. The butter was not well packed and hundreds of firkins arrived in a sad state of repair. The Russians refused to accept the butter in that condition, although it was a free gift to them, and a coöperation had to be given the job of repacking the butter at a cost of $7500, which has not yet been paid by the lend-lease people. Housewives in the east are limited to one-quarter pound of butter and most of the stores have none.

Pacific Wool Growers association, representing practically every sheepman in Oregon, is suspicious of WPB and has telegraphed Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard to have wool transferred from WPB to the department of agriculture. The association also asks that the federal government buy the domestic wool. The government is now buying wool in Latin America to prevent it from falling into the hands of the Axis and Great Britain is buying all the wool of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa and warehousing it in the United States. Negotiations are now under way for the United States to buy 35,000 bales of wool from Uruguay, having bought heavily from that country last year. If the government will not buy the domestic wool, the Pacific Wool Growers association asks that a floor be placed under the price ceiling.

Apparently all but 20,000,000 people will be engaged in war, directly or indirectly, if calculations are correct. These will include all under 18 and those of advanced years. In the first place, the military forces, army, navy, marines, coast guard,

It requires, according to the procurement division, 10 persons, (some say 10.5) for every man in uniform producing equipment, materials and food for the man who carries a gun. Back of the ten million, therefore, will be 100,000,000—at least—attending to supplies. This makes 110,000,000, and as the population of the United States is 130,000,000, only 20,000,000 will be left not doing war work. The figures indicate that millions of women must take their place in war industries in the months to come.
