

Area Supervisor Pays County Visit

Paying his first visit to the county since establishment of his office in Pendleton about a month ago, Lewis A. Nichols, area supervisor for the office of distribution, is in Heppner and surrounding territory today familiarizing himself with conditions in this locality. The office of area supervisor is a recent innovation in an effort to get closer to the people and their problems than has been the case in dealing with the regional office at San Francisco, Nichols stated.

Such matters as food distribution from factory to consumer, conservation of supplies, anti-inflation, school lunch programs, information to schools, preparing contracts and securing reimbursements are included in the area supervisor's schedule covering 11 eastern Oregon counties.

Nichols was accompanied by Eugene Hampton, county supervisor for the farm security administration, with office in Pendleton and embracing Umatilla, Morrow and Gilliam counties.

SEEKING TO SET UP A NUTRITION PROGRAM

Miss Anne Bergholz, nutrition field representative for the American Red Cross in Oregon, is in the county this week seeking to set up a nutritional program with emphasis on the schools. In company with Miss Grace Jackson, area Red Cross supervisor, she has visited several points to arrange for meetings.

Since health is a prime factor in winning the war, much stress is being put upon food and proper diets. It is the purpose of the Red Cross to cooperate with the county public health associations by providing experts to advise and direct the establishing and carrying out of nutritional programs.

TELEPHONE COMPANY GENEROUS TO RED CROSS

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company is contributing $130,000 to the Red Cross War fund, according to an announcement by N. R. Powley, president, just received by A. M. Green, district manager in Pendleton.

"Our contribution exceeds by more than 50 percent the $85,000 we gave last year," President Powley said. "In contributing $130,000 this year, it has been our earnest endeavor to subscribe as liberally as possible to assist in meeting the added needs of the Red Cross as expressed by its increased budget for 1944."

The company's 1944 Red Cross War fund contribution has been apportioned, based on the relationship of the county quotas to the total quota, to the counties which it serves in Oregon, Washington, California, Nevada and Idaho. On this basis Morrow county's allocation was $25 and a check for this amount was turned over to the local chapter today by Mr. Green.

DRAFT CHECK-UP

Elmer V. Wooten, selective service director for Oregon has sent all draft boards in the state a bulletin directing them to immediately review all occupational classifications particularly involving agriculture and industry, so as to obtain additional men under 26 years of age. Replacement schedules also will be reviewed by draft boards under Wooten's direction.

Wooten indicated that the classification review program in Oregon probably would not result in obtaining any appreciable number of additional men for the army and because Oregon is one of the few states in the union that has complied with the quota requirements since the war started.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

You hear a lot of talk about morale these days . . . but have you found many people who knew exactly what "morale" was?

Well, I was thumbing through my scrap book the other day, and I came on this verse I'd like to pass on to you . . .

It's the lift you get from a friendly smile . . .
A brand new hat in a jaunty style . . .
A letter from home that the postman brings . . .
Morale is a lot of little things.

Isn't it so? Morale is just a lot of little things. A flower in your button hole, a word of greeting, an occasional refreshing glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, if we take care to preserve these little friendly things that boost morale, we'll be doing a lot to help our country in its time of crisis.

And we'll boost morale among our soldiers at the front, too. Because it's these "important little things" that they look forward to returning to.
