Some member of the 1944 graduating class of Heppner high school will receive a $50 scholarship fund if he or she decides to take up teacher training. Former School Head Here Dies in Ohio

News of the death of Hamilton H. Hoffman, former Heppner school superintendent, reached Heppner last week-end. He passed away March 13 at Canal Winchester, Ohio. This news might not have reached here had Heppner lodge No. 358 B. P. O. E not been searching for Mr. Hoffman to apprise him of the fact that he had been elected to honorary life membership in the order.

Hoffman came to Heppner about 1910 as superintendent of schools. He remained here six or seven years, during which time the present school edifice was erected. He was exalted ruler of the Elks lodge three successive terms and was one of the best informed members in this district. His last visit to Heppner was in 1942 and since that time had not kept the lodge informed about his address. Information regarding his death came from a sister residing in Ohio.

Gas Questionnaire Should Be Filled Out

The local office of the OPA has mailed out questionnaires to farmers using non-highway gas and has not been getting the response desired. This is disappointing and adds to the work of the office force, it is stated. This information is necessary in order to complete the estimate for the county's requirements and the board urges all those receiving the blanks to fill out and turn them in as quickly as possible.

There appears nothing complicated about the questionnaire—how many acres do you farm? how many acres in summer fallow? how many acres in wheat? how many in hay, etc. It is pointed out that non-highway gas users will be doing themselves a favor as well as the rationing office by attending to this duty promptly. It is impossible to issue the gas you need without so doing.

ERNEST THORNBURGH

Hardest Fighting Ahead, Senator Holman Declares

Ordnance Workers Urged to Keep Up Splendid Record

Monday was "T-flag" day at the Umatilla Ordnance Depot, when several hundred workers and numerous invited guests assembled to witness the raising of the flag presented by the United States treasury in recognition of the depot's co-operation in the war savings plan. More than 90 percent of the workers, 95 to be exact, are investing 12 percent of their earnings; it was revealed by Col. A. S. Byers, commandant at the depot.

The program, starting at 3:45, included music by the Hermiston high school band, group singing of "God Bless America," "War Bonds and Oregon," an address by Elwain H. Greenwood, representing the Oregon War Finance committee; "War Bonds and the Nation," United States Senator Rufus C. Holman; introduction of McCaw hospital service men; presentation of service flag by Major Walter L. Roche, war bond officer, Ninth Service command; acceptance by Col. A. S. Byers; raising of flag, and "Star Spangled Banner," by the band. The program was broadcast through the facilities of Station KWRC, Pendleton.

Senator Holman, principal guest speaker, and member of the senate military affairs committee and of the appropriations committee, stated that he was representing "not only the senate and committee, but the entire congress. I've come here to praise you and to extend to you the thanks of the Federal congress. Your dollars make it possible to supply the men and equipment to carry on the war." But he warned that we have just begun to fight and that casualties up to the present will be light compared to what will be suffered when the big offensive really opens up. The committee estimated losses will run to 100,000 a month and that the manpower budget as drawn up plans for 1,000,000 men as replacements for the year ending June 30, 1944.

The senator said we have stopped being pushed around and have stepped forward enough to gain a toehold, but we have not yet begun to fight as we will know the war in the next twelve months. He warned that it is a terrible mistake to be lulled into a feeling of security that victory is already in the bag. He noted that it has only been within the last year that the western part of the country has not been exposed to bombing.

Judge Carl Chambers of Umatilla county was master of ceremonies.

LEXINGTON GRANGE TO STAGE CLEAN-UP SUNDAY

Members of Lexington grange will gather at the hall Sunday noon to participate in a potluck dinner, after which they will seize rakes, shovels and any other needed tools and set about cleaning up the grounds.

Mrs. Virgil Hatfield and baby son from Portland are visiting at the home of Mrs. Hatfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Instone.

Family Experiences Misfortunes of War

War still is what Sherman termed it back in the Civil war days. At least that is the opinion of a Heppner family. Cleo Gardner, called up for his physical examination, reported at Seattle, taking his family to Yakima to visit relatives for a day or so. All returned home Thursday and prepared to break up housekeeping for the duration. They sold their home Saturday to Vernon Prock, shipped some of the household goods to California and otherwise prepared to move in the week or two between the examination and induction. Monday the draft board notified Cleo that he is not to be inducted now because he is 32 years old.

Further complications arose. Mrs. Gardner came down with scarlet fever and she and their two little girls who had the disease earlier, are now in quarantine at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alma Perkins. Things being as they are, Gardner and his two little boys are leaving today for California, with Chico as their destination.

Three-Day Drive For Scout Funds To Start Monday

County Asked to Aid in Financing Council Activities

Everything is in readiness for the annual three-day campaign to raise funds for the Blue Mountain Scout council. This drive is in charge of Blaine E. Isom, local finance chairman, and will be launched first thing Monday morning, April 17 and continue through Wednesday. Heretofore only Heppner has been canvassed for funds but this year, with the addition of troops at Ione and Boardman, the entire county will be solicited to raise this district's share of the $13,500 budget.

Membership in the Boy Scouts of America has more than doubled in the county during the past year. To day there are 95 boys enrolled in four troops, one Sea Scout Ship and one Cub Pack. It is the goal of the Scout leaders to again double membership during the coming year. This growth undoubtedly has been due to the concerted efforts of local leaders and the Blue Mountain Council executive staff, now totaling three men. An executive has spent one week each month in the area organizing, training leaders and planning activities for the Scouts. Kenneth Hickenbottom is the assistant Scout executive assigned to this territory.

Scout leaders are aiming to complete organization of the entire long-span program of Scouting during the next year. Under this program a boy will join the Cubs at the age of nine and carry on in this home-centered activity until he is 12, when he will join the Scout troop. Three years of extensive work and fun in the troop will qualify him to become a member of the Senior Scouts, either as an Air Scout, an Explorer or a Sea Scout. At present in the county there is one Senior unit and one Cub Pack. As soon as books and other materials are available, other Packs and Senior units will be organized.

A Court of Honor, a camporee, a newspaper salvage campaign and two camps are included in the immediate plans of Morrow county Scouts. They will participate in a wastepaper salvage campaign the last of April. A camporee, with all troops participating, will be held at McCaleb's cabin on Willow creek early in May. This will be an event open to the public and the Scouts will participate on a competitive basis. Firemaking, signalling, first aid, and commando tactics will be featured events. The Court of Honor will be held at the camporee.

The Cubs in Heppner, under the leadership of Father Francis McCormick will continue to meet during the summer and will have several summertime activities and outings.

Corwin is on a hunt for a principal and one teacher for the high school. He would prefer a principal-coach but if a good principal can be obtained some other arrangement will be made regarding the coaching job.
