

Judge Johnson to Head KOG Committee

Judge Bert Johnson has been asked by Governor Earl Snell to serve for the present year as chairman of the Morrow county Keep Oregon Green committee, and to take an active part in organizing this county against the destructive fires which in the past have done much damage to our fields and forests.

Governor Snell said in his letter of appointment to the local leader, "The State of Oregon is again calling on its citizens for their full-hearted cooperation in the Keep Oregon Green program. In the past port and enthusiastic leadership of many of our local leaders has been for years, the statewide public support driving force that has reduced our fire losses to the lowest point in the history of the state. To localize our fire prevention activities, we have found it worthwhile to establish a connection between local leaders and the state central committee."

The chairman's duties include arranging for frequent newspaper messages and radio programs calling attention of the public to the necessity in this war year for stopping man-caused conflagrations, as well as seeing that adequate distribution of fire prevention advertising matter is made so that it will act as a constant reminder to the general public.

ISSUES WARNING AGAINST DOGS RUNNING AT LARGE

"That's John Smith's dog; that's all right, he has a tag on, he has a right to go where he pleases." No, he has no more right than the one that has no tag. The dog that has a tag can tear up just as much garden as the dog without a tag. He will come into one's garden at night to bury bones and will dig anywhere that looks good to him, no matter if there is anything planted there or not.

You'd better watch your dog if he has a license. When he is loose on the street he is the same as any stray dog, for the owner never knows where he is or what he is doing. Lots of people have pet dogs that they hate to part with. Some of them seem to think that a dog license is all that is required. That won't protect him any more than if he didn't have a license, if he comes into my garden and digs holes and buries bones, for I won't stand for it. I will fix some liver with strychnine and put it where he has buried his bones.

The government is calling for more Victory gardens all the time and a person can't raise a garden and have dogs running through and digging it up at night.

I like a good dog as well as anybody, but I like him to be kept in a good dog's place. The city and county authorities have explained the law on this dog business so there is no excuse if you don't comply with the law.

News affects our lives from the minute we get up until we go to bed. That is one reason we should select our foods with the greatest of care so as to obtain the largest amount of vitamins with each meal . . . May 21-28 has been designated as RAISIN WEEK . . . Raisins are healthful—a food of many uses—so get yourself some raisins — also dried prunes and peaches. Sure we have them.

Our Kind of
FOREST MANAGEMENT
takes a tree crop but leaves the woods!

THERE was a time when the trees of the abundant American forests stood on land needed for villages and farms. Forests were removed both for their timber and so that the land might be used.

Today we have enough farm land. Our remaining forest areas can be kept at the job of producing successive timber crops.

Under modern perpetual-yield management the forests produce the things we need, but the forest industries keep the woods—wooded. Through scientific cutting, maintenance of seed sources, and planting of nursery-grown stock, young, vigorous, forest growth replaces mature, slow-growing trees which need to be harvested.

This company and the forest industries generally have entered a period of managed, planned operations of the woods.
