

TO LIVE IN VANPORT

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boner of Ione have moved to Vanport where Boner will be in charge of recreational work in the Vanport school. Accompanied by Mr. Boner's mother, Mrs. Nellie Boner of Joseph, they were in Heppner Saturday. This office acknowledges a pleasant call from these people, Mrs. Anderson.

Nellie Boner and her son having been former neighbors of the editor's family in Joseph.

DECORATION DAY VISITOR

Among former residents returning for Memorial day was Mrs. Clara Ashbaugh of Portland. She also attended the funeral of Harold Anderson.

BOARDMAN NEWS

By MARGARET THORPE
Mr. Plass manager of the Cooperative creamery at Hermiston was on the project on business Wednesday.

Wednesday night a stork shower was held at the home of Mrs. S. Russell in honor of Mrs. Geraldine Gronquist and Mrs. Virginia Dillon. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meinen spent Wednesday in Pendleton on business.

HEC met at the home of Ruth Anderegg Thursday afternoon with a large crowd attending. The Pollyanna party was held the same afternoon, after which the names were redrawn for a new party.

Lt. Jim Howell of the U. S. navy spent a few days visiting his parents this week.

Pvt Bob Smith has notified his parents that he has passed the necessary tests to be a pilot. There were 10 out of 40 who passed.

A great deal of excitement was treated this week when a desert fire started by army target practice jumped the canal and burned in close to several farms on the East End. A barn on Dan Ransier's place was burned and haystacks on other places threatened.

Mrs. Francis Harter went to Beaverton Saturday where she met Mr. Harter. They were trying to find a house to move into. Mr. Harter has not as yet been assigned to any town but is still working at Seattle.

Mrs. J. Gilstrap has returned home from Pendleton hospital where she recently underwent an operation. Her sister is staying with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thorpe made a business trip to Portland Friday.

J. Gilstrap has been called east due to the illness of his father.

Scout Activities . . .

By Lauren Corwin

Thirteen boys from the Heppner troop went to Bingham Springs where a camp was held for troops from Pendleton, Pilot Rock, Ione, Lexington and Heppner. The camp was in session from Saturday noon to Tuesday afternoon and was situated above Bingham and the boys were taken down to the Springs each day to swim.

It rained a little each night which made the sleeping problem more difficult, but it taught the boys how to take care of themselves in such weather and acquainted them also with the darker side of camp life.

Inspection was held each morning and the boys got many pointers on keeping clean camps.

All in all the boys agreed that to have another camp there next year would be well worth while.

DRIVES TO CITY

Frank W. Turner was a Portland visitor the first of the week, driving down Sunday and returning Tuesday.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

When our mortars were pounding Maknassy Hill near Sidi Bu-Sid in Africa, Private James Rugolo of Brooklyn, New York, was one of the men bringing up the ammunition. Struck by shrapnel, he kept going until he dropped, was awarded the Purple Heart. On every battlefield men like Rugolo press the attack relentlessly, regardless of personal cost. Are you doing enough to keep our attack rolling through Payroll Savings?

SNOW HELPS WIN the WAR

SNOW UP THERE.—A major part of the West's war food production depends upon the water-supplying snow pack of the high mountain watersheds in the Cascades, the Rockies, the Sierras, and other ranges. Despite shortage of manpower and other handicaps, hardy snow surveyors from cooperating local, State, and Federal agencies have gone up and measured the snow and its water content this year as they do every year—in order to help farmers, power companies, cities, and many others to know how much water they may count upon having this coming summer.

WATER DOWN HERE.—"It's the water that counts"—water used to best advantage in irrigating this and other Western States' war food production acres. When the final April snow survey reports are in, men of long experience estimate with surprising accuracy how much water will flow in the West's streams and into its reservoirs. Farmers, ranchers, and orchardists, for example, then can lay their plans accordingly for planting and irrigating in accordance with the forecasts, made on the basis of normal rainfall.
