Honolulu, "crossroads of the Pacific", where close to a thousand such inquiries are handled every week. The service, however, is popular everywhere Red Cross personnel are stationed throughout the global warfare. It was in one of the latter stations that the Cox brothers reunion was effected by Strong.

PARIS STILL GAY, STYLE CAPITAL OF WORLD SAYS LEXINGTON SOLDIER

From somewhere in France, Lew Evans writes his impressions of that country in a letter to his father, E. J. Evans of Lexington. Dated Oct. 21, he writes:

It has been quite a while since I have written but we have been rather busy. We have moved to France and had to get set up. We are fairly comfortable now, in a tent with plank floor, cots, a stove—even electric lights which sometimes work, a little. It is a good thing we got set up after a short time as it has been raining steadily and the place is a sea of mud.

I got to make a trip to Paris recently. This is a very modern and beautiful city, and still, after four years of occupation, the style center of the world. There is quite a bit of expensive, beautiful, high-quality merchandise in the shops. I bought a few things for Marian for Christmas.

The French people suffered during the occupation and I have heard many atrocious stories reiterated. A majority of families have lost a member or two, either killed or sent into Germany for forced labor. The Jews were treated particularly bad. But in spite of this, they are friendly, well dressed and gay. Paris is in direct contrast to dowdy, shabby London. The standard of living of French people seems equal to ours, although there is a large peasant class which seems very poor. But the Parisians are immaculately dressed and look very nice. Women in the U. S. would have to fix up to compete with them. Prices are high, but the French seem to have plenty of money. There are a few scarcities, such as cigarettes and gasoline, but it is not that the people cannot afford these things, rather they just are unobtainable.

It looks as though the war is going to last longer and be tougher than was first thought. The Germans seem to be full of fight yet; and, during the advance through France, the French organization did invaluable service. Of course we don't have that advantage now. Also the weather works against us now.

So I don't know when I'll get home. Of course I am pretty anxious—it seems that I have been here for years and years—but I hope it is soon.

Goodbye for now. I'll try to write again soon.

Your loving son,
Lew.
